The News Menagerie. Politics' Laughing Hyena. 25,000 Speakeasies. Would Gov. Smith Help?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

A MAN looking through the news is like a small boy in a menagerie.

So much to see you have to run from cage to cage, from the laughing hyena to the snorting hippopotamus, and from the bar-shaking orang-outang to the placid elephant.

Politics may be called the laughing hyena of the human menagerie, and the crime wave is the orang-outang.

IN POLITICS everybody claims everything.

Mr. Raskob has already carried Pennsylvania for the Democrats, unofficially, and begins to feel that Hoover will not carry one state in the union.

Dr. Work, on the other hand, says the Solid South is now solidly Republican and dry, and if Gov. Smith gets one southern state, why, Dr. Work will be surprised.

GOV. HUGHES is elected a world court judge by 41 votes out of 48.

That is, proportionately, the vote that will be cast against the United States when its interests in that court conflict with Europe's interests.

And if a question should arise as to America's duty to pay Europe's war bills or cancel old debts owed us by Europe the vote would be 100 per cent hostile.

However, no foreign court can bind us, unless we all turn into international financiers and hopeless toadies.

Judge Hughes is an able man and knows the law, international law included. No better man could act as world court judge, if we must get halfway entangled.

SPEAKING of law enforcement, prohibition, etc., real figures are enlightening. When this writer was a young reporter, New York City had about 8,000 policemen, 8,000 school teachers, and 8,000 saloons with an average of two bartenders to each.

Now, Mayor Walker, of New York, determined to find out about speakeasies—the modern saloon—learns that New York City has at least 25,000.

It is difficult for the authorities to close them, what with judges granting protecting injunctions, etc.

Perhaps it would not be so hard, if somebody paid as much to have them closed, as the speakeasies pay to be let alone.

BERLIN'S stock exchange is depressed, and no wonder. When the Walrus and the Carpenter, accompanied by the Little Oysters, had "walked on a mile or so, and all the Little Oysters stood and waited in a row," you remember that they were startled when dinner was ready, and they were the dinner.

France and England are the Walrus and Carpenter, German business men are the Little Oysters.

FROM now on, Germany must pay six hundred million dollars every year IN GOLD. Where is Germany to get that amount of gold each year?

This country, stuffed with gold, has exported five hundred millions of its surplus, within a year, and the Federal Reserve high financiers make that a pretext for encouraging outrageous usury.

IF WE have hysterics and our banking system resorts to usurious robbery because we lose $500,000,000 of gold we don't need, how can Germany pay $600,000,000 gold, every year?

France and England know she can't pay. Hence the scheme to let Germany borrow the money from us, pay Europe, and let America do the worrying.

BY THE way, Gov. Smith, why not find out what some of your Republican friends are up to by investigating the existing wave of "respectable usury" in New York City?

Many business men, all over the country, would be much obliged to you. The Republicans might call it "politics," but the people would call it public service.

When men extort 8 per cent for loans on absolutely good security, somebody ought to go to jail, beginning with the responsible respectability in the Federal Reserve.

MR. DURANT, who seems to worry about prohibition, first offered $25,000 for the best essay on how to enforce it. Now he offers $5,000 prizes for similar essays exclusively by high school boys.

But William J. O'Shea, superintendent of public schools in big New York City says "No, you don't. No New York high school child shall compete for your prize, which is nothing but a political scheme. I am anxious to keep the schools absolutely free from politics, therefore, no essays from New York."

WHAT could a New York high school boy say, anyhow, living as he usually does, with at least one speakeasy on the block, and knowing exactly where it is.

Some high school boys even make money on wet afternoons, holding umbrellas over ladies and gentlemen emerging from taxis to enter the speakeasy basement doors.

The answer to Mr. Durant's question, "How can you enforce prohibition?" is, "You can't, bootleggers won't let you."

DEPUTIES SCATTER RIOTER SESSION

Deputy sheriffs closed down a "Save-the-Union" Committee convention in Croatian Hall, East Pittsburgh, today, after Police Supt, Peter P. Walsh had banned gatherings in Pittsburgh and instructed the delegates not to meet again.

The 250 delegates, gathered secretly to continue sessions which led to riots Sunday at the Labor Lyceum in Miller street and in two downtown hotels, disbanded and left the hall quietly on orders of the executive committee.

DEPUTIES END MEETING

The afternoon session was just beginning when the deputies entered the hall and instructed John W. Watt, chairman, and Pat Toohey, secretary, that it would have to adjourn and that they could not meet again in Allegheny county. The executive committee met and after a few minutes discussion adjourned the meeting.

Of the 112 arrested yesterday and arraigned before Magistrate Orie, 91 were discharged and order to refrain from further participation in the convention. Charles Philip, alleged to have kicked Fire Captain Howard Pifer during the disorder at the Home Hotel yesterday, and Thomas Rea and Mike Stenack, who said they did not believe in this form of government, were held for court charged with inciting to riot.

LEADERS FINED

Anthony Minerich, Ben Gerjoy and John Oberland, three of the leaders, were each fined $25 and 15 others were fined $5. Minerich, a member of the national committee of the "Save the Union" group, and the others were reprimanded by Magistrate Orie, who branded

RIVAL MANAGERS

Manager Miller Huggins' Yankees regained the American League lead by winning, 5-0 and 7-3, over Mack's Athletics. The teams are idle today, but will clash again tomorrow and Wednesday in single games.

Jury Calls McManus

Constable James McManus, of the Second Ward, was unexpectedly called before the federal grand jury investigation booze graft late today.

The revived Federal investigation of Pittsburgh's booze boodle got under way today, when the first of 200 assembled witnesses was called before the grand jury.

In the crowd of witnesses waiting to testify was Owen McManus, Republican chairman of the Second Ward, who has been at odds with administration leaders. It was McManus' brother, Constable James McManus, who surprised politicians last week by reporting to the courts that his ward was not exactly spick and span so far as lawbreaking was concerned.

The first witness called before the same jurors who last June indicted 167 politicians, policemen, racketeers and others was Joseph A. Frayne, assistant prohibition administrator. Attorney Ralph H. Smith represented the government in the jury room.

Some 47 bank cashiers, subpenaed to produce the accounts of the 167 already indicted, appeared in the Federal Building, armed in most cases with portfolios presumably holding the records.

KILLS SELF IN PITT 'Y'

Anthony Grada, deliveryman for a soft drink manufacturer, drove up to the Pitt branch of the Y. M. C. A. in DeSota street today to inquire if any "pop" was needed. The Pitt "hut" has been closed all summer, but Grada, being a relief driver and guided by an old list of customers, didn't know that.

Grada opened the front door and saw what appeared to be a deserted building. He was about to yell "Anybody here?" when he saw a revolver on the floor of the hallway. Four feet away Grada saw a sprawled body across the bottom steps leading to the second floor. The body was warm but life had passed.

It was that of Watcyn R. Williams, 26, a post-graduate student at Pitt and secretary of the Pitt "Y." Police came and found, in a desk on the second floor bedroom used by Williams, this note:

"I leave all my belongings to my brother."

The note was dated September 6, a fact which indicated that Williams had contemplated taking his life for several days. His health had been poor for more than a year. He was ill of diabetes and he spent much time—possibly too much—on his studies. He was to have returned to Pitt next week to study for a master's degree.

Born in England, Williams came here 12 years ago. The brother referred to in his note is R. L. Williams. Several sisters in England also survive.

CARRANZA POISONED

—HEFLIN

United States Senator Thomas Heflin, Alabama, is ready to die as "Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Obregon, of Mexico," he told 10,000 Ku Klux Klansmen Saturday night in a 3½-hour address in a grove off Munroeville road, near Turtle Creek.

The fiery Senator from the South told his "100 per cent American" audience that Gov. Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, who attacked him before American Legionnaires last week, "is a little, contemptible wretch." This, however, was mild in comparison to his opinions of Gov. Al Smith, his party's nominee for the presidency. As for the "Roman Catholic Empire" and Pope Pius XI, the Alabama orator recalled the shades of metaphors used by "Marse Henry" Watterson, Kentucky, and Henry W. Grady, the silver-tongued Georgian.

"Little Jimmy Walker" came in for much facetiousness in the Senator's tirade against Tammany. He charged his enemies, whom he hints plan to poison or assassinate him, with giving Capt. Carranza, the Mexican flier recently killed in a night flight over New Jersey, poison in his food before he took off. He denied implications of intolerance hurled at him by political allies and enemies.

GET 5 JURORS FROM 80

Fayette J. Tyrrell, attorney, on trial for the murder of Philip F. Clark in First Christian Church, Munhall, between Sunday school and church services last May 13, will plead self-defense, J. Thomas Hoffman, of defense counsel, announced when court recessed for lunch today.

Attorney Hoffman indicated, however, that there is a "remote possibility" that insanity as a contributing cause may also be contended in the effort to save Tyrrell from punishment for the slaying of the husband of the woman employed by him and for whom he sought a divorce.

While attorneys went forward slowly in the selection of a jury to decide Tyrrell's fate, Mrs. Clark sat in an anteroom, awaiting the call to take the stand and tell her version of events leading up to the tragedy. Only five jurors had been selected from among 80 examined, which exhausted the panel. Judge Robert A. Stotz, of Northumberland county, ordered a new panel to report tomorrow.

All of the 20 preemptory challenges of the prosecution, had been exhausted. The defense exhausted 14 of its 20.

The fifth juror selected was Joseph W. Axmacher, railroad brakeman, 439 Althea street. He was the eightieth prospective juror examined, exhausting the panel. Judge Stotz ordered a new panel to report Tuesday morning.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, conducting the prosecution, announced that he is prepared to submit a petition for the

Seize 4 In Gambling Raid

North Side police, led by Lieut. John J. Lynch, arrested four men and confiscated gambling paraphernalia of every description when they raided the "Young Men's Social Club" at 1229 Franklin street, Woods Run.

The first find was a quantity of stock market lottery tickets. In a back room the officers came upon slot machines, racing forms, baseball pool tickets, dice, poker chips and cards.

W. E. Smith, 32, of 1229 Franklin street and James Tayden, 31, of 1515 Sedgwick street, Woods Run, were arrested as keepers of a disorderly house. James Robinson, 21, of 1436 Franklin street and Sam Kimball, 31, of 1420 Pasture way, both Woods Run, were held for frequenting a disorderly house.

RIVER TRAFFIC HELD UP FOUR NIGHTS BY FOGS

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 10—(AP.)—On four nights during the past week traffic on the Monongahela River was suspended 30 hours due to heavy fog. River boats tied up until the heavy blanket lifted and no accidents were reported.

Pfischner Vacancy Fight On

A battle has developed for the Republican nomination for State Senator in the Fortieth District to succeed the late Edward E. Pfischner.

The principal contenders are reported to be Herman Brandt, of Ross township, who is said to have the support of Bellevue, who is being backed by former State Representative John W. Vickerman and other "dry" leaders. A number of other candidates are in the field.

The selection will be made by members of the Republican county committee from the district. They probably will meet Saturday, September 22.

Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, here yesterday with A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the Senate, said he is not worried over reports that Democratic leaders are hoping to carry Pennsylvania for Smith.

"We are not worried about that," he said. "What we want to do is to elect 36 Republican Congressmen from this state."

Bucs Open Final Cub Series

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Pirates, in happy mood, following their victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis yesterday, are ready for their final series of the season with the Chicago Cubs, which starts here this afternoon.

Manager Donie Bush has Brame ready for mound duty for the opener, while it is expected that Artie Neff will do the pitching for the Bears.

Yesterday's game proved well to the liking of the Oaklanders, who pushed to the fore in the latter part of the contest to win by an 8-7 margin. The victory gave them an even split in the series with St. Louis.

HOOVER LEAD NOW 1,875 IN PENNA. STRAW VOTE

Herbert Hoover's lead over Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the straw vote poll of Pennsylvania conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph mounts with each day's returns.

With the total of votes cast by the electors of 25 counties of the state approaching the 20,000 mark, the majority of the Republican candidate is 1,875.

He continues to be the favorite in the returns from Philadelphia. In the latest returns more women than men cast ballots for Hoover. Nearly as many men voted for Smith as for Hoover but the women in that city gave Hoover a good majority.

In the returns from rural counties Hoover had better than a 2-to-1 majority over the Democratic standard bearer. Returns from rural areas, which were slow at the beginning of the poll, have been increasing in numbers daily.

The standing to date in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, is as follows: Hoover 10,510, including 6,809 men and 3,701 women; Smith 8,635, including 5,605 men and 3,030 women.

This vote in 1924 was as follows: Coolidge 13,364, including 8,544 men and 4,820 women; Davis 1,473, including 1,100 men and 373 women; LaFollette 1,475.

Has Deputy Job While Police Hunt Him

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—When the police picked up Ben Barrett, whom they had sought for a year to answer to a charge of murder, they expressed curiosity as to where he had been during the last 12 months.

"I've been a deputy sheriff," Ben told them. "Down in El Paso, Tex. I told the sheriff I was down there for my health. So he gave me a job."

"I often thumbed through the 'wanted' circulars," said Ben, "and read where this fellow Barrett was wanted in Chicago for murder. I studied his picture. I would hardly have recognized him."

ANTHONY MINERICH

Today members of the insurgent group of miners were held over pending investigation by Federal authorities. Among these was Anthony Minerich, local organizer and member of the national committee. Minerich has been active in the recent strike and has been barred from speaking at a number of nearby coal towns.

them "Reds" and a "menace to our government."

Freeman Thompson, of Illinois, was placed in a padded cell last night when he was detected preaching communism to his fellow prisoners, according to police. Thompson is said to be a former official of the United Mine Workers of America. He was among those fined $5.

MANY BANDAGED

Many of those arraigned this morning appeared with bandaged heads, blackened eyes and other signs that yesterday's session was not a picnic. Besides the "Save the Union" delegates, a number of "standpatters" in the United Mine Workers of America, who sought to dissuade those attending the convention from their avowed purpose of reorganizing the miners' union, were taken into custody. All of these were discharged when they explained their purpose to Magistrate Orie. The others were questioned closely as to their political and industrial beliefs by the magistrate.

If the prisoner admitted he was not a citizen and had attended "Save the Union" meetings, Magistrate Orie asked him if he knew he was aligning himself with the Bolsheviki. He also inquired into the man's Communistic beliefs and those who failed to explain their connection with the insurgent group of miners to the satisfaction of the magistrate, were held over.

"These 'Reds' need investigating," Magistrate Orie declared. "Every man who cannot prove his citizenship will be turned over to government authorities for investigation. Perhaps some of them will be deported."

"DISTURBERS"—WALSH

Supt. Walsh referred to the "Save-the-Union delegates as a "lot of disturbers." "The citizens of Pittsburgh are entitled to peace and safety, and I intend to give our people such protection," Walsh said.

The superintendent said that if a meeting was attempted today he would detail every patrolman in the city, if necessary, and arrest every man found at the meeting.

A riot yesterday in Labor Lyceum, Miller street, where the convention was being opened, sent six persons to the Passavant Hospital. Police arrested 21 men, including five of those injured. Anthony Calamari, of Charleroi, one of the injured, suffered stab wounds, but was able to leave the hospital today. At noon police rushed to the Home Hotel in Duquesne way, arrested 18 and sent two to the Allegheny General Hospital for treatment, later taking them to the lockup.

RIOT IN HOTEL

The last riot occurred in the lobby of the Monongahela House, where 76 persons were taken into custody.

John L. Watt, a leader of the Save-the-Union faction, bolters from the regular United Mine Workers' Union, declared that "paid pickets" of the United Mine Workers of America attacked the dissenters during the opening session of the convention. Union pickets were present to peacefully picket the insurgent group and to defend the policy of the United Mine Workers of America, according to Philip F. Murray, international vice president of the union. He denied that the pickets had started trouble and said that they had been attacked.

appointment of an alienists' commission to examine into Tyrrell's mental condition. The defense submitted, and was granted, a similar request last Friday.

John Christ, 40, laborer, 17 Carrie street, was the fourth juror accepted. It was expected that Judge Robert A. Stotz, Northampton county, here especially to try the case because of Tyrrell's acquaintance with all local judges through legal practice, would call another jury panel to report Tuesday morning.

When court opened at 9:30 o'clock Tyrrell, trembling, entered a plea of not guilty through William H. Coleman, his chief counsel. Judge Stotz ordered the defendant's pedigree taken and the trial to proceed.

J. M. Mackey, 35, of 1106½ Glenn avenue, Wilkinsburg, a Pennsylvania Railroad brakeman, the third juror questioned, was the first accepted. Michael F. Fifer, 50, of 401 Aisbet street, a printer, was the second, and Sam Beam, 45, of 7 Jack's Run road, Bellevue, an iron molder, the third.

SEE END FRIDAY

Prosecution and defense counsel indicated that they expect the trial to end by Friday night. They asked the prospective jurors if they could remain away from their homes for five days.

Tyrrell is charged with the murder of Clark, whom he shot down following Sunday school services in the Munhall church, in anticipation, he alleges, of Clark's bringing accusations against him before the congregation at the church service following. Tyrrell was superintendent of the Sunday school.

Clark was planning, it was alleged, to charge Tyrrell with responsibility for differences with his wife, for whom Tyrrell, an attorney, had brought divorce proceedings. Mrs. Clark had been employed in Tyrrell's office.

The courtroom was jammed as the trial opened. In addition to 80 prospective jurors summoned to appear for the trial, many others from the Munhall community were in attendance to hear details.

"A" Derby, Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kan., landed his Cessna monoplane at Rockwell Field here at 8:36 a. m. (Pacific Coast time), today on the next to last leg of the transcontinental race.

Rowland's official landing time was announced at 8:24:17½ a. m.

Second to arrive was Tex Rankin, Portland, Ore., flying a Waco biplane. Rankin brought his machine to ground at 8:26:16½. Robert Dake, in an American Moth landed third at 8:32:08.

Others arrived in the following order: W. H. Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., in a Travelair, 8:35.28½. Theodore W. Kenyon in a Challenger, 8:36:51½. Eugene J. Detmer, of Tarrytown, Pa., in a Travelair, 8:39:15.

COUNCIL GETS GARBAGE PLAN

Possible changes and improvements in the garbage and rubbish removal contracts will be studied by a councilmanic committee appointed today by President of Council James F. Malone. The committee is composed of W. Y. English, P. J. McArdle and Charles Anderson.

Malone stated that the study will be made with a view to having all information and recommendations available when the time comes to prepare the 1929 budget and contracts. No change is contemplated before the end of the year unless something develops to make it necessary.

BROTHERS SHOT IN FIGHT

Two brothers are dying in the Mercy Hospital, attaches there say, from bullet wounds suffered early today when one of the two quarreled with a man in Montclair street, Hazelwood, near their home. The victims are Antonio Fernello, 32, of 723 Montclair street and his younger brother, Samuel, 26, of Ninth avenue, Homestead. The men quarreled over a woman, detectives say they learned.

The police are holding three witnesses and are searching for a man whom the younger brother accused of the shooting. Samuel Feranello, named F. Migliazzo, of 305 Lexington court, Carnegie, as the man who fired the shots, Detective Lieut. David Corbett said. An automobile which police identified as belonging to Migliazzo, was found abandoned near the scene of the shooting.

WEAPONS THROWN AWAY

Carnegie police who went immediately to the Carnegie residence found three men leaving in an automobile and were outdistanced in the chase that followed. During the chase, Carnegie police say, a shotgun, a rifle, a revolver and ammunition, letters addressed to Migliazzo and a wallet containing his name were thrown from the speeding machine. The weapons and papers were wrapped in a bed sheet.

The witnesses who are being held on suspicious person charges said they were Thomas Schooley, 61, of 640 Montclair street, his son Joseph, 17, and Deferezo Marrone, of 642 Montclair street. They were unable to shed any light on the shooting.

QUARREL OVER WOMAN

Antonio Fernaello, who was shot three times in the breast and abdomen was unable to talk to detectives. Samuel, who was shot in the abdomen, told detectives that Migliazzo had querreled with his brother over a woman and the shooting, followed. The condition of both men was reported as critical.

7 HURT FIGHTING BLAZE IN BRADDOCK

Play Time, Hurrah! :-: Where Crowded Schools Force Half-Day Sessions :-: "Situation Not Acute"

CAN'T BE TOGETHER

AFTERNOON

Now that school has started, pupils everywhere in the city are safely at their desks but some of those—about 200—in Brookline. They have no desks. These little girls, Alice Donges, who goes in the afternoon, and Lavine Sieglenmon and Alice McCullough, who go in the morning, can't play together because of the half-day sessions.

AFTERNOON SCHOOL

THE DAY

School for the day is over for these youngsters, who have just finished their afternoon session, the only one of the day for them. This situation in the city schools exists only in Brookline and West Liberty Public Schools and workmen are rushing an annex which will remedy the situation at least by next spring.

HALF-DAY SESSIONS

HAPPY

Boys, of course, are boys. These little fellows, Russel Dally, Dick Shumaw and Warren Cook are happy because they must go to school only in the afternoons. But don't let their teachers or their parents hear that they're happy about it. J. F. Moore, principal of the schools on half-day basis, says the situation is not alarming.

PAROCHIAL

In the same neighborhood, these little boys go to scvhool only in the morning at Resurrection parochial school, Creedmore avenue, where there is also an overflow. They are Jack Shock, Bob Shock, and Bud Auen. At the two public schools, little can be done until the addition is completed, it is reported.

7 INJURED FIGHTING BRADDOCK FIRE

Seven firemen were injured, one seriously, two buildings were destroyed and an entire block threatened early today by fire of undetermined origin that caused more than $132,000 damage to Braddock business houses.

Firemen from five boroughs fought more than three hours before the blaze was brought under control. Scores of spectators were showered with glass when an explosion shattered the windows.

The two-story building occupied by the Kroegers grocery and meat store at 613 Braddock avenue and the hardware store of J. Mitchell in a three-story building at 611 Braddock avenue were destroyed. The fire orginated in the grocery store.

Braddock firemen were fighting the flames in this establishment when they discovered the flames raging in the hardware store. Firemen from East Pittsburgh, North Braddock, Rankin and Swissvale were called.

Thomas Murphy, 45, a Braddock fireman, was knocked 20 feet from a ladder to the roof of a building from which the flames were shooting. He was rescued unconscious and taken to Braddock Hospital, his condition serious.

The other injured are Arthur Bennett, 35, assistant chief of the East Pittsburgh fire department; Emanuel Harts, 45; Milford Geyer, 23, and Gordon Cargo, all of the East Pittsburgh department; James Archer, 23, of the Rankin fire company, and Joseph Marcus, 34, of the North Braddock department.

The last six were injured when a skylight collapsed on them on a second floor landing. They were cut and bruised.

Smoke and water caused damage to the jewelry store of A. L. Henderson at 615 Braddock avenue and to the stationery shop of Henry Peterson in the same building and to the baker shop of L. Ccearney at 609 Braddock avenue. The total loss of stock in the three places was $8,000.

Stock in the Kroeger store was valued at $15,000 and the building at $40,000. Joseph Wills, the owner, had quarters in the second floor in which plumbing equipment valued at $15,000 was lost.

Stock lost in the hardware store was estimated at $20,000 and the building at $45,000.

The blaze was discovered by a policeman.

DAPPER CLUES FAIL

With three weeks passed since Dr. Harry Dapper, Carrick physician was lured to Mifflin Township and slain, county detectives are still as puzzled as when they entered their investigation and are without a bit of direct evidence to present at the coroner's inquest a week from tomorrow that might help in the capture of the murderer.

Many stories have been told to the sleuths working on the case, but none of these are strong enough to merit an arrest. Henry Dapper, father of the slain physician, has been questioned more than a half dozen times and the detecthives are still not satisfied with his story. Many clues have been turned up by private investigators, but all these have proved fruitless as far as detectives are willing to admit.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered by the father and $250 has been offered by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern has been endeavoring to have the county offer a reward of $5,000 and expects to present a resolution to this end at the commissioner's meeting tomorrow.

"BOOTLEG BLUE BOOK" LINKS PHILA. POLICE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Discovery of a "bootleggers blue book" caused District Attorney John Monaghan today to press with renewed vigor his drive against bootleggers, hijackers and gangsters, who, he declares, have operated in this city on an enormous scale through the connivance of the police. The drive is now in its fourth week.

Several witnesses who Mr. Monaghan said he expected would strengthen his charges of police bribery were under subpena to appear before a special grand jury.

LINKED TO CITY HALL

The "Blue Book," alleged to contain the names of bootleggers, their wives and lawyers, with the names of certain City Hall detectives and their telephone numbers, is expected to play an important part in the investigation. Some of the names are of persons living in New York, Pennsylvania and Middle-Western and Pacific Coast cities. The book was found in one of the raids by county detectives last week. In it the prosecutor said he had discovered a "frank connection between the underworld and police circles."

HIS PICTURE GONE

It is reported that the picture of a wealthy bootlegger, whose name has been mentioned in this and other liquor inquiries involving huge sums of money, has vanished from the rogues' gallery. This report will be the subject of a thorough investigation, Mr. Monaghan said.

ARM CRIPPLED, FORCED TO SLAY, SAYS BOXER

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Dallas Palmer, professional pugilist, held in the Kanawha County jail here charged with the murder of Virgil Casto, at a Kanawha City roller skating rink, told authorities he was forced to use a knife to defend himself from Casto. Casto, he said, would have killed him with two bottles. Palmer said he was unable to use his fists to defend himself because one of his arms was broken and held in a plaster cast.

LOSES GRIP ON AUTO, BROUGHTON MAN DIES

Losing his grip while riding on the running board of an automobile, Jacob Vococicher, 50 of Broughton, fell beneath the machine yesterday and was fatally injured. He died last night in South Side Hospital from a fractured skull. The accident occurred near Library. Cremo Basteni, of Bethel township, owner and driver of the machine will post bond today for an inquest.

John Nelson, 70, a passenger in the automobile of his grandson, Kenneth Encose, of Hillcrest street, was injured slightly last evening when Encose's car collided with the machine of Edward Yellig, of 2957 Glenmawr avenue, Dormont, in Carson street, near Thirteenth street. Both machines were wrecked and the drivers ordered to appear in Traffic Court. Nelson was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Charles Duby, 3, and Mrs. Clara Klein, 40, of 44 Lafferty avenue were injured slightly when the machine of Henry Duby, 44, of 400 Cedarhurst street, father of the child, struck the car of Frank Attanucci, 18, of 129 Roscoe street, in Climax street. The machines were badly damaged.

Winter and Summer :-: Playground Functions Year-'Round Indoors :-: Leslie Center

HOLD FUNERAL OF W. S. BROWN TOMORROW

Funeral services for William S. Brown, 78, former county treasurer and prominent Mason, will be conducted tonight at his late home, 5801 Aylesboro avenue, by the Rev. Albert Edward Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church. Interment will be private tomorrow morning in Homewood Cemetary. Mr. Brown died Saturday.

Born in Pittsburgh, Mr. Brown went west when a young man. On the way to California he and his party had to fight off hostile Indians. He engaged in prospecting, returning here 15 years later. While in the west and while a member of several "covered caravans," he became expert with firearms and later became inspector of rifle practice for the old Fourteenth Regiment of National Guard.

He worked in a coal mine near McKeesport after his return, and later entered the shipping trade, becoming a captain of a river fleet operating on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Later he established a sporting goods store in Wood street.

He became a Mason in 1894 and at one time was treasurer of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children. He was past president of the American Republican Club, a member of the Duquesne Club and of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

In 1894 he was elected county treasurer and served one term. He was a thirty-third degree Mason, past officer of Braddock Field Lodge, No. 510, F. and A. M., past officer of Shiloh Chapter, No. 675; a past emminent commander of Tancred Commandery No. 48, Knights Templar, and a member of the Pittsburgh Consistory. He leaves three sons, William McC., Edward and Samuel Brown, and two daughters, Mrs. Paul Hay, and Mrs. J. Homer McCready, all of Pittsburgh.

BOY HIT BY TRAIN AT M'KEESPORT CROSSING

Struck by a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train at the Fifteenth street crossing, McKeesport, last night, John Ulokovich, 12, of 1110 Waddell avenue, McKeesport, suffered a fractured skull and a broken left leg. He is in a serious condition in McKeesport Hospital.

Breaks Jugs Over Heads of Police; Fined $10

One of the tallest prisoners ever held in Center Avenue Police Station, Foster Owens, 26, a Negro, more than six and a half feet tall, was fined $10 in police court yesterday for attacking three policemen Saturday night in Devilliers street.

Detected carrying two jugs of moonshine in a basket, police said, the Negro broke the jugs on the head of Lieut. Thomas Gross and then attacked Patrolmen Paul Jovanic and Edward Kenna. Gross and Jovanic were treated at the Passavant Hospital, the latter for a bite on the left hand.

10,000 IN FUND DRIVE

'ARMY' TO HELP WELFARE SCHEME

Edgar J. Kaufmann, who has accepted the chairmanship of the publicity committee of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, will direct the advertising in the greatest money-raising campaign in Allegheny county since the United War Work drive nearly 10 years ago.

The undertaking is for the cooperative financing of more than a score of the leading social service agencies in the Pittsburgh district.

The campaign will open November 12 and continue 10 days. The canvass will be extended over the county and under the direction of A. K. Oliver, president of the Welfare Fund, will be carried on by 10,000 volunteer workers united in the common cause of humanity.

Mr. Kaufmann points out that the enterprise has no precedent in efforts toward financing local charities. It marks the first step toward the support of Pittsburgh philanthropies through united community effort, he says, and since the money will be spent at home, it means that contributions are in fact an investment making Pittsburgh a better city in which to live.

In organizing his committee, Mr. Kaufmann has surrounded himself with leaders in the fields of merchandising, transportation, printing and publishing, advertising, public education, amusements and varied civic activities. Each committeeman will be the chairman of a distinctive group, co-ordinating every available source in obtaining the widest publicity for the drive.

Members of the committee are: Leo Lehman, advertising; J. B. Bissell, direct mail; Frank Wilbur Main, meetings; F. J. Kress, national groups; A. H. Burchfield, newspapers; J. W. Johnson, radio; Dr. William M. Davidson, city public schools; E. C. Noyes, county schools; R. Templeton Smith, speakers; Dennis A. Harris, Pittsburgh Theater Managers' Association; Fred J. Herrington, Motion Picture Owners' Association; W. M. Jacoby, window displays; Frank Davis Preston, exhibits.

ASKS PROBE OF WIFE'S DEATH

Demands for an investigation into the death yesterday of his wife are being made by John Fakeolis, proprietor of a restaurant at 1718 Beaver avenue. According to the husband, the woman was an expectant mother and she was beaten a week ago by a customer she attempted to eject from the restaurant. The physician who attended the woman said she died from natural causes. The husband had the body taken to the morgue and an autopsy performed. This also failed to show any unusual cause of death, the report stated.

No Driver's Card, Trail Led to Still, Charge

Obliging motorist who "had left his driver's license at home," Acting Chief Edward Hellwig, of the Oakmont police, returned to the motorist's home with the driver yesterday and discovered a 10-gallon still, the officer reported yesterday. Three barrels of mash and a quantity of moonshine also were found in the house, the chief reported.

George F. Schurer, 39, of Oakmont avenue, the motorist, was arrested on a charge of violating the Snyder act and also with violating the automobile laws, when he failed to produce the correct drivers' license.

BODY FOUND UNDER SPAN DEATH LAID TO ALCOHOL

Alcoholism is believed to have caused the death of a man thought to be Charles E. Ptack, 45, of McClellandtown, Pa., whose body was found in Hope street, near River avenue yesterday. The body was found under a railroad bridge where the man probably had gone to sleep.

STRICKEN ON STREET, FATALLY HURT IN FALL

Seized with illness in front of his home late yesterday, Angelo Bianchi, 64, of 308 Sandusky street, fell to the pavement and fractured his skull. He died two hours later. City physician A. F. P. Houston reported that Bianchi had been subject to similar seizures for many years.

FRANKLIN SPECIAL

PIKE'S PEAK CLIMB
dramatic demonstration of
FRANKLIN POWER, SPEED, AIR-COOLING

Franklin Special flashes up Pike's Peak course, 12.4 miles, to height of 14,109 feet in amazing time of 19 minutes, 25⅕ seconds

AMID cheering crowds and astounded spectators, a Franklin Special, piloted by Cannon Ball Baker, raced the classic Pike's Peak hill-climb in 19 minutes, 25⅓ seconds! Entered for the first time in this famous annual Labor Day event, the Franklin gained the admiration of thousands throughout the course of 12.4 miles—in which it climbed from 9,000 ft. to 14,000 ft.—a difference of one whole mile in altitude—and finished the terrific grind within one minute and 43 seconds of the winner.

. . . up, UP, UP for 12.4 miles

A gruelling, spectacular run! Around 203 hairpin curves and switch-backs, from summer heat to 2 degrees below freezing, with snow covered roadways—and matched against 6 other high powered, specially constructed cars, Franklin scored an individual triumph—the only car with no special extra provisions for cooling the engine.

This Franklin Special was designed and built on the identical advanced principles employed in the new Franklin Airman Limited.

Air-cooling proved supreme

In the air an air-cooled motor carried Lindbergh to Paris—conquered the Pacific—the North Pole—and now Byrd gives further endorsement by using only air-cooled motors on his Antarctic Expedition. On land the air-cooled Franklin travelled from Los Angeles to New York and return 10½ hours faster than the former record time—the air-cooled Franklin climbed Lookout Mountain, which is 46% steeper than Pike's Peak, in new record time. Here, in the Airman Limited, is a car that challenges any other car in road performance.

World's fastest road car

The Airman Limited is thrilling thousands of owners with its incomparable riding comfort, lightning acceleration and ability to maintain long sustained high speed over roads as they come. We urge you to drive the car—you'll be astonished.

CHAS. E. DINKEY TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. for Charles Eugene Dinkey, broker and former steel man, who died Saturday. The services will be held at the Dinkey home, 1301 Sheridan place.

Mr. Dinkey was born August 4, 1868, at Bowmantown, Pa., a son of Reuben and Mary Elizabeth Dinkey. At 12 he became a messenger for the Edgar Thomson furnace and in 1883 was a printing shop assistant taking a special course in chemistry at the Western University, now the University of Pittsburgh.

He later became laboratory assistant and chemist of the steel foundry of Mackintosh & Hemphill. In 1889 he was made assistant superintendent of the blooming mill of the Carnegie plant at Homestead and later was transferred to the Edgar Thomson plant as machinery inspector and became superintendent in 1901. Later he was made general superintendent.

Mr. Dinkey had been trained under veteran steel men, among them Thomas Morrison, C. M. Schwab, his brother-in-law; James Gayley and Capt. Jones. He resigned from the Edgar Thomson works in 1920 to engage in the brokerage business.

HAD MANY INTERESTS

He was a director of the Braddock National Bank, Bessemer Trust Company, North Penn Coal Company, Western Allegheny Railroad, Masonic Hall Association of Braddock; vice president of the Allegheny County Memorial Park; a member of the Alumni Society of the University of Pittsburgh, American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Iron and Steel Institute, Philadelphia Speedway Association, McKinley Commemorative Club, Edgewood Country Club, Duquesne Club, Pittsburgh Country Club, Lewis and Clark Club, Braddock Rifle Club, an honorary member of A. M. Harper Post 181, G. A. R., and was a major in the community boys' brigade. He was a thirty-third degree Mason, a member of all the affiliated Masonic bodies, and a representative to the Imperial Council of the Shrine. He had been a member of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania since 1903.

He married Miss Lelia Ada Boyd, of Mt. Lebanon, June 15, 1899, who survives, with two children, Mrs. Margaret E. F. Finlayson and Charles Eugene Dinkey, Jr. He was a brother of A. C. Dinkey, president of the Midvale Steel and Ordinance Company.

SQUIRREL HILL GARAGE ROBBED

Forcing an attendant into the rear of the office, two men early today looted the cash register in the office of a garage at 7107 Reynolds street, Squirrel Hill and escaped. Cornelius Coue, 28, the attendant, told police the men obtained about $25.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

A SKETCH of the two historic characters, Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh, will be broadcast as the dramatic offering of the weekly General Motors Family Party over the NBC System, including WCAE, at 9:30 o'clock. To be featured on the same program are the Fisher Male Quartet and a novelty orchestra, under the direction of Joe Green.

From WJAS at 9 o'clock opera lovers will have a chance to hear Verdi's popular "Rigoletto," sung in English by the now well-known United Opera Company. At 10 o'clock those who favor the popular type of program may tune in on The Captivators.

Merle Johnston, saxophone soloist, will be heard with Roxy and His Gang during the program to be broadcast through KDKA at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Johnston, who has been an NBC artist for several years, is attempting by his study of the saxophone to establish it as a concert instrument. He has organized a quartet, and arranged a quantity of music for presentation in this form. In fact, in his extensive library of saxophone music there are included 30 orchestrations made for his quartet. He possesses two alto instruments, as well as a tenor, which is his favorite medium of musical expression. Selections also will be heard from the symphony orchestra, the mixed chorus and other soloists.

"Turkish March," from Beethoven's composition, "Ruins of Athens," will be played by the Trail Blazers, directed by Harold Sanford, during the Riverside hour to be broadcast through KDKA at 9 o'clock. The program will open with J. Oliver Riehl's "Spirit of Progress March," which is followed by the stirring "Anvil Chorus," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore." A bright Slavonic dance by Dvorak, and "Before the Mast," by Laurendeau, also will be played by the band. "Window of Dreams," by Spier and Coslow, and Lohr's wistful "Where My Caravan Has Rested," will be sung by a male quartet.

Further adventures of Richard Burke, American owner of the South American cafe, El Ta-ba-ris, with his French dancer, Cozette, and their unusual Tango Orchestra, will be heard in the next chapter of "El Tango Romantico" to be broadcast through WCAE at 10:30 o'clock. As usual the dramatic incidents in the new episode will be brightened by vocal and instrumental numbers throughout the program.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

NEW WAYS FOR OLD

By EUDORA RAMSAY RICHARDSON

IN the five years that Nancy had left home to try her fortunes in the distant West, she had seen her mother only once and then during the chaotic days of her father's illness and death. Richmond when she went away, though the twentieth century had more than become of age, was still in Victorian shadows. Nice girls did not leave country club dances to be refreshed from flasks hidden in the pockets of automibiles. They did not fill their calendars with late dates, nor did they smoke cigarettes on the terrace of the club.

Five years of marriage had done several things to Nancy. They had added an array of cosmetics to her equipment, had shortened her skirts, thinned the lines of her eyebrows, and most, disastrous of all, had bestowed the cigaret habit upon her.

Now she was on her way home for a long visit, wondering how her craving for smokes after meals was to be satisfied in a community that still accepted the plump queen as its ideal. She remembered with a vividness undimmed by the years, her father's disgust for the cigaret girls he had seen in northern hotels and she remembered also her mother's echo of the indictment. It was unthinkable to let her mother discover that she smoked; it was equally unthinkable to give up cigarettes for a month. As the train neared Richmond Nancy smoked three cigarettes on end and then wash her mouth with listerine.

She blinked twice before she realized that the chic young woman waiting among the crowd at the station gate was her mother. Forty-five was not old, of course. Yet her mother by the side of the austre judge who had been her husband had always seemed to Nanny the embodiment of conservative middle-age. This person, in a tunic of chiffon, rose flowered on a blue background, with a rose felt hat above a face that simulated the bloom of youth, gave no suggestion that life's meridan had been passed.

"Mother," gasped Nancy, "you're the best looking thing! I thought you might look older."

"One can't afford to these days, dear," Mrs Wentworth smiled.

The sports roadster that serpentined its way through traffic, Nancy reflected, must have caused the Judge restless hours beneath the sod in the cemeery. It was a bright green with tan trimmings and many metal adornments. The house, too, had undergone changes in favor of modernity. Victorian furniture had given place to antiques of an earlier and comelier day.

After luncheon the craving for a cigaret was so poignant that Nancy felt she would pass out of the picture unless she could smoke. Mentally she swore at herself for getting the habit. When one simply ached after meals, there was no denying its hold.

"I want to see the garden," she said when she could endure the discomfort no longer. "Don't come, mother. It will be fun to explore all alone."

So behind the rose trellis she smoked in delicious relief. Afterwards she chewed some mint which she assumed that her mother grew for flavoring tea. On the way to her room Nancy encountered Mrs. Wentworth descending from the attic with a quilt in her arms.

"Thought you might need this tonight," she explained. "There's to be a bridge party this afternoon, by the way, younger married set."

"Then may I have the car!" Nancy asked.

"Oh, I'm going too. I've been demoted to the younger set."

Nancy's eyes widened as she wondered what the Judge would think if the news could reach his resting place. They continued to widen when she reached the club. The metamorphosis that had operated upon her mother was evident on all sides. At tables scattered over the terrace women were smoking as brazenly as though they lived in New York or the freer west. The young married set was dangling silver cigaret cases from chains attached to little fingers and snapping lighters as though they had acquired the art with their second teeth. When someone offered Mrs. Wentworth a cigaret, however, that lady shook a determined head.

"What about you, Nancy?" a girl asked.

"Oh, no thank you," Nancy replied primly.

The rest of the afternoon she played abominable bridge, getting no pleasure from the smoke that curled about her.

After dinner that night she confessed to an unconquerable longing to walk alone in the moon-splashed garden. There again behind the trellis she smoked in peace disturbed only by realization that she could not go on forever with her insistence upon solitary communion with nature.

Later during the evening respite came when friends arrived to take her to the club for dancing.

"Now will you smoke?" someone asked.

"Will I?" sighed Nancy. "Mother would be disconsolate if she knew that I had the habit."

"Disconsolate is right," the girl giggled unsympathetically.

So Nancy smoked much more than was good for her and stopped on the way home for a bottle of listerine.

Her mother was out when she returned. Coming in an hour later, she explained that she had been dancing on a hotel roof. Nancy thought again of her father and was genuinely sorry for his dignified ghost.

The next morning after breakfast Mrs. Wentworth pre-empted the garden by going out to cut roses.

"I'll join you in a minute," Nacy temporized when invited to go, too.

Shen she ran up to the attic. Near the dormer in the front storeroom she would be safe, she reflected. She puffed away in an enjoyment enhanced by its surreptitious quality.

Emerging from the store-room a bit later, however, she uttered a little cry. Someone sat huddled at the back window. Mrs. Wentworth started to her feet, dropping a half-smoked cigaret.

"Mother," cried Nacy, "Mother—you—"

Mrs. Wentworth hung her head like a school girl caught cheating on examinations.

"I'm sorry, dear," she said. "If it hurts you, I'll stop."

Nancy drew herself up haughtily.

"It does hurt me," she replied seriously, "more than I can tell you. It hurts me to see that a mother of mine smokes such abominable scented grass. Upon only one condition will I forgive you and that is that you will try a real cigaret. Here take one."

Mrs. Wentworth dipped two manicured fingers into Nancy's case.

"What a relief!" she sighed devoutly.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL EVENTS

Between Seasons Delightful Time

CATHOLIC WOMEN CONVENE

PHOTOS BY JOHNSTON.

MRS. GEORGE ZEUGER

Mrs. George Zeuger is a director of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, which is holding its annual convention this week.

MRS. JAMES A. RONEY

Mrs. James A. Roney is another director of the council, which will have its ninth annual convention Wednesday and Thursday.

Great Variety of Social Events Now Scheduled

FOR those of us who like variety (and who doesn't?) in-between-seasons are the most delightful. Then one finds the most glorious mixture of things. Just now we are going through the transition stage from summer to autumn. And when it comes to society affairs, what season could offer more variety than the period right this very week?

We hear about folks coming home from the summer, full of vivacious chatter about their resorts, about the swimming, about famous golf and bridge plays, and above all, about their sunburn and tan! Then there are still some folks at resorts, and we hear about their entertainments. Folks are going to Europe now, and coming back. Young girls are about to make their bows to the social world, and other young girls are going off to school soon. Older folks are planning for winter benefits and balls, and many members of the younger set are thinking mostly right now about their weddings just a few weeks off.

MANY of the buds of this fall are just coming back home. Marian Stone, who will make her bow this autumn, her brother, Stephen, Jr., and her parents, Judge and Mrs. Stephen Stone, of Forbes street, are in the city once more after many weeks at Hyannisport, Mass. Marian will not "come out," I've heard, for at least a month or so.

DOWN at White Sulphur Springs the George W. Crawfords have been playing a prominent role in entertainments. Last week they gave a dance in the ballroom of the Kates Mountain Club for over 100 guests. Gaily colored balloons decorated the foyer of the clubhouse, the walls and ceilings of which were screened with greenery.

At a dinner dance at the Kates Mountain Club the Crawfords and the Eugene W. Pargnys were seen among the guests.

INVITATIONS have just been issued for the wedding of Elizabeth Alcorn, daughter of the Samuel Stewart Alcorns, of Bryn Mawr, and James Hiller Hardie, son of the Walter L. Hardies, of Bartlett street, on September 29 in the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. Of course the Hardies and their daughter Janet will go down to Philadelphia for the wedding.

MRS. HARRY DARLINGTON, Jr., has closed her summer home in Watch Hill, Rhode Island, and has left for Europe. She sailed on the Ile de France.

MARY ELEANOR BATON, daughter of the George Scott Batons, of South Graham street, who is to marry Edwin Freed Scheetz, son of the Henry F. Scheetzes, of Philadelphia, on October 6, has just made known her bridal party. Louise Baton will be her cousin's maid of honor. And another cousin, Catherine Baton, of Philadelphia, Dolores Osborne and Doris Garrett, of Boston; Winifred Johnson, of New Castle, and Virginia Woolfolk, of Pittsburgh, will be bridesmaids.

The men of the bridal party will be announced later.

THE marriage of Miss Christine Hooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hooper, of Bellevue, and Charles Richard Noll, of Avalon, was solemnized last Wednesday at 5:30 o'clock in the parlors of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy. Miss Marjorie Hooper was her sister's maid of honor and John W. Reed was best man. A dinner for the families and bridal party followed the ceremony at The Pines. Mr. and Mrs. Noll are traveling in the East.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Dr. Florence Tenny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Tenny, of Storrs, Conn., and Dr. Robert L. Starkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Starkey, of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized Saturday night in the Storrs Community Church by the Rev. Garland Wagoner, assistant pastor. Dr. Starkey was formerly on the staff of the University of Minnesota and is now a faculty member at Rutgers.

PLANES AND CARS

It beats all, said Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier, on her last visit to Pittsburgh, how the street railways companies have been keeping pace with air and other travel modes. This, of course, as with George P. Putnam, publisher, she visited the latest car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

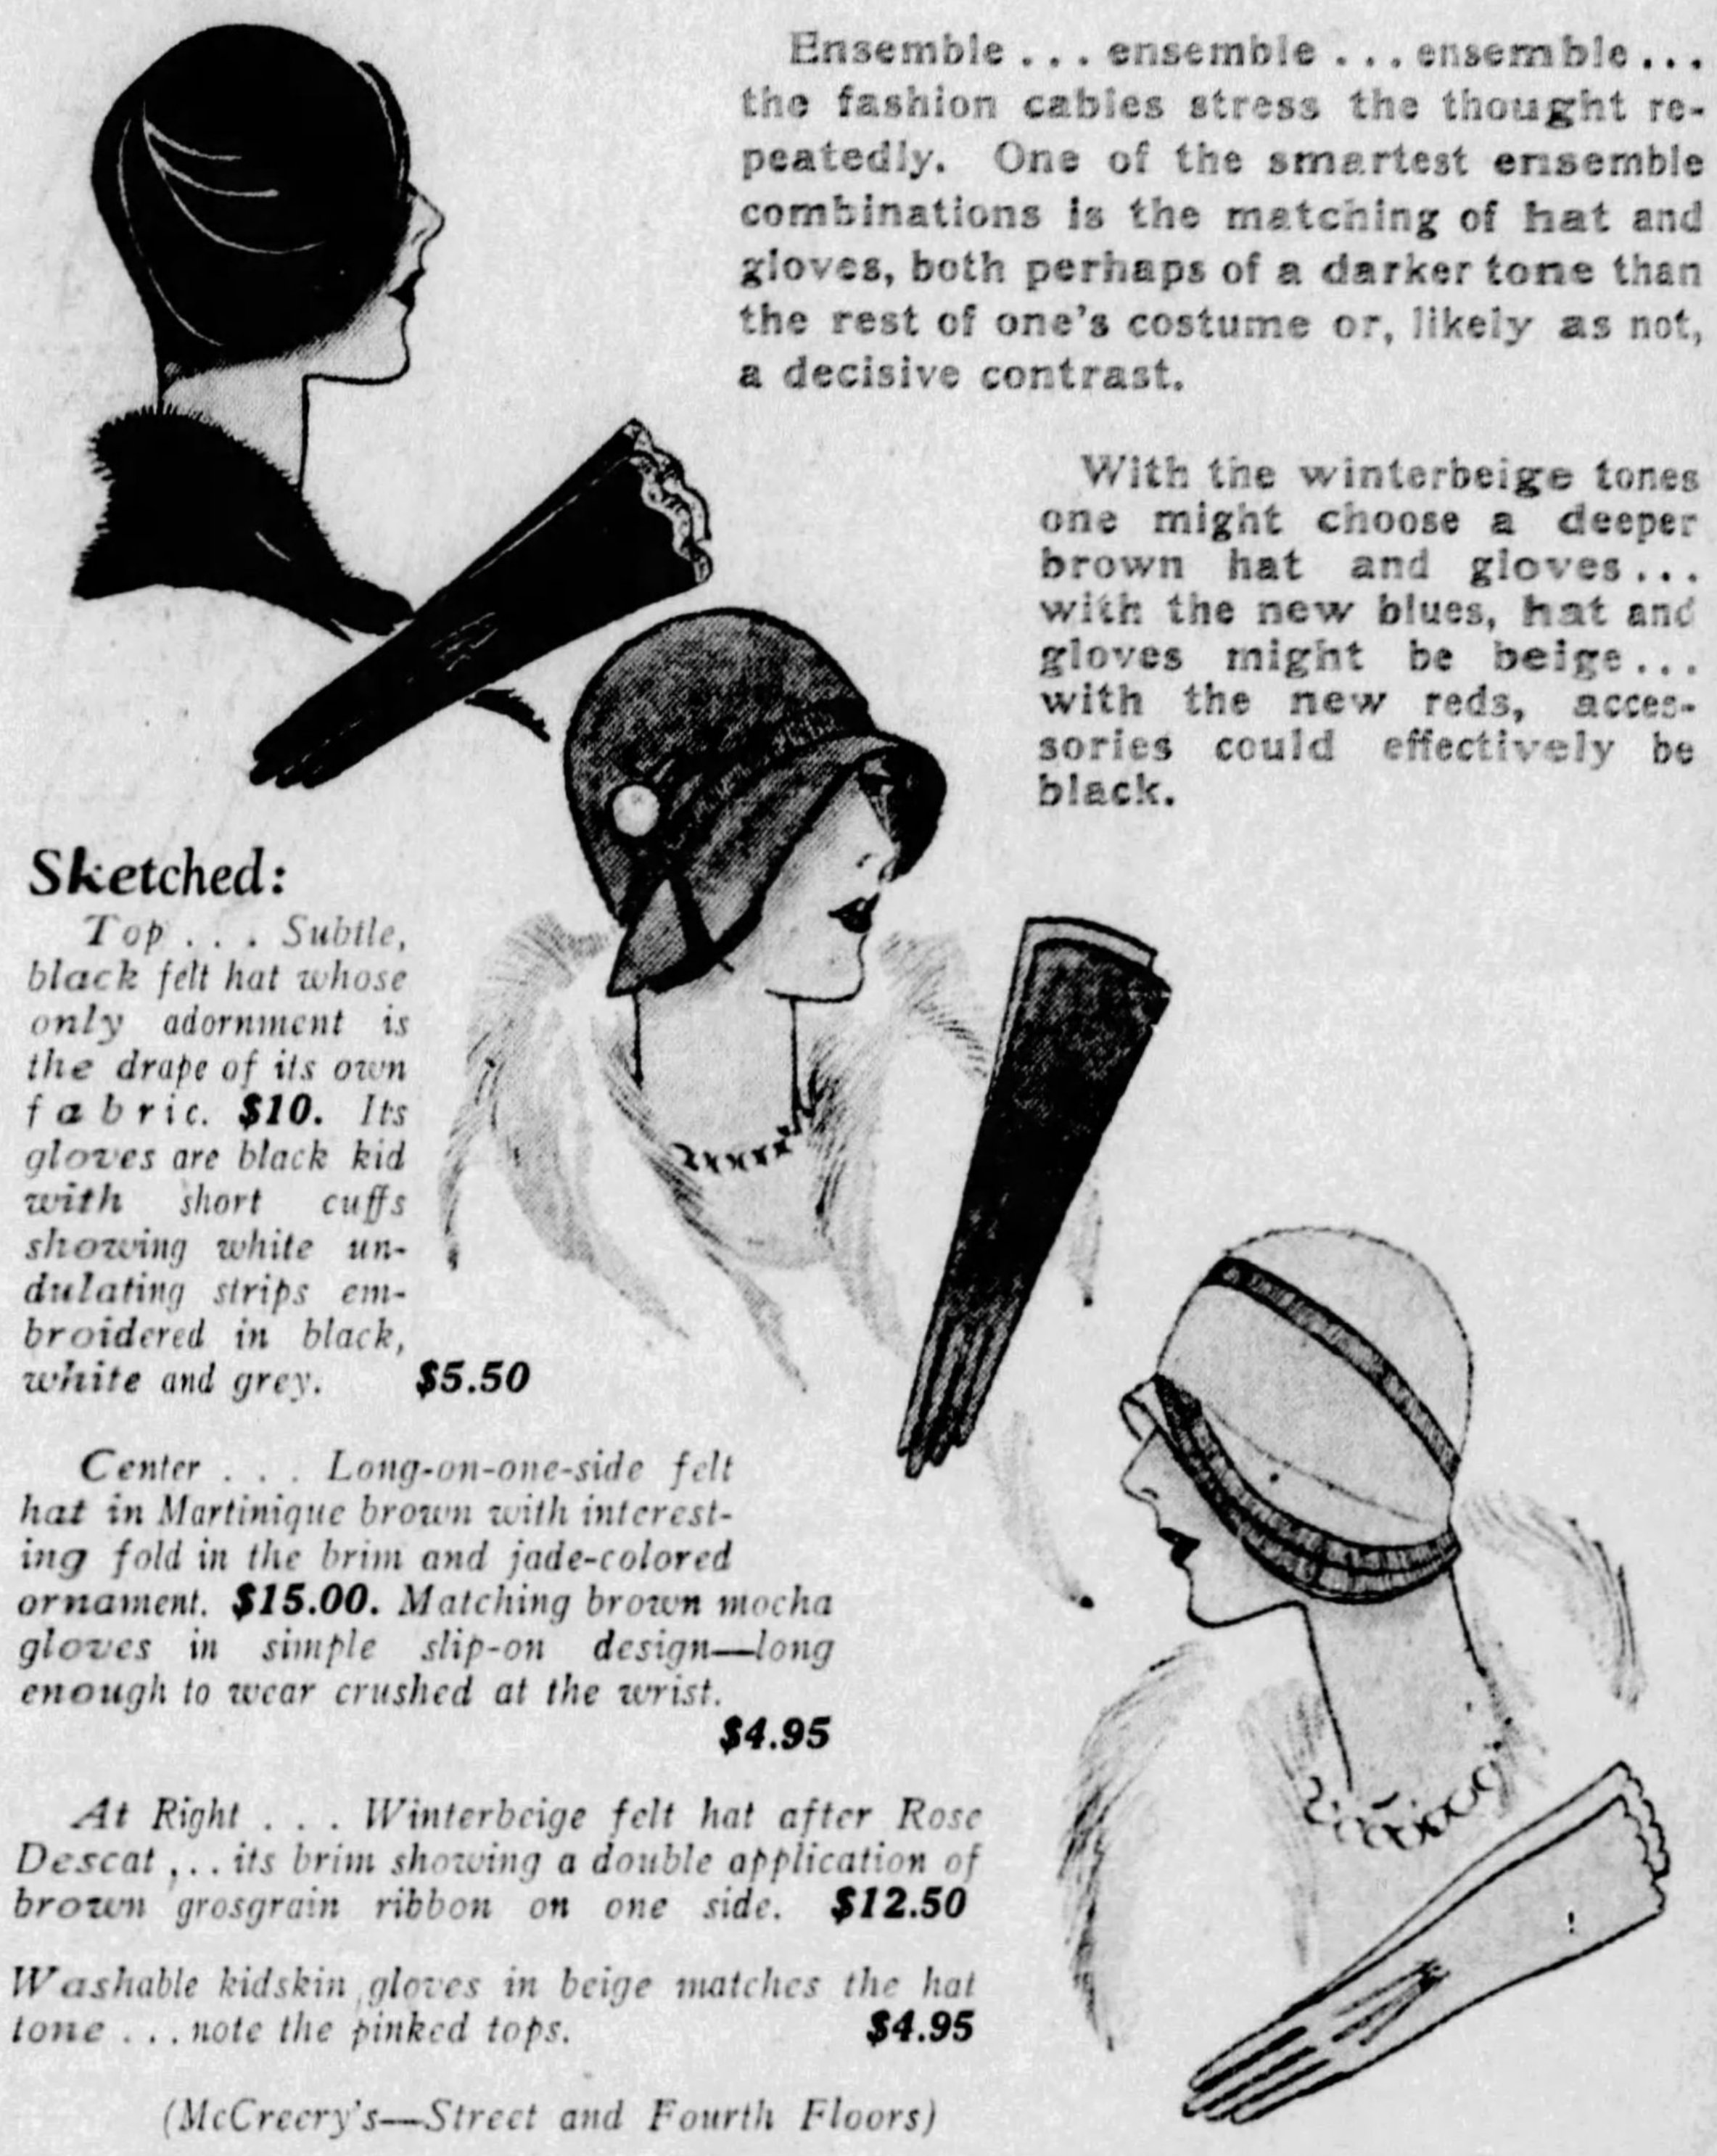
—A New Idea in Ensemble
Matching Your Hat With Your Gloves, Madame


Ensemble . . . ensemble . . . ensemble . . . the fashion cables stress the thought repeatedly. One of the smartest ensemble combinations is the matching of hat and gloves, both perhaps of a darker tone than the rest of one's costume or, likely as not, a decisive contrast.
With the winterbeige tones one might choose a deeper brown hat and gloves . . . with the new blues, hat and gloves might be beige . . . with the new reds, accessories could effectively be black.
Sketched:
Top . . . Subtle, black felt hat whose only adornment is the drape of its own fabric. $10. Its gloves are black kid with short cuffs showing white undulating strips embroidered in black, white and grey. $5.50
Center . . . Long-on-one-side felt hat in Martinique brown with interesting fold in the brim and jade-colored ornament. $15.00. Matching brown mocha gloves in simple slip-on design—long enough to wear crushed at the wrist. $4.95
At Right . . . Winterbeige felt hat after Rose Descat . . . its brim showing a double application of brown grosgrain ribbon on one side. $12.50
Washable kidskin gloves in beige matches the hat tone . . . note the pinked tops. $4.95

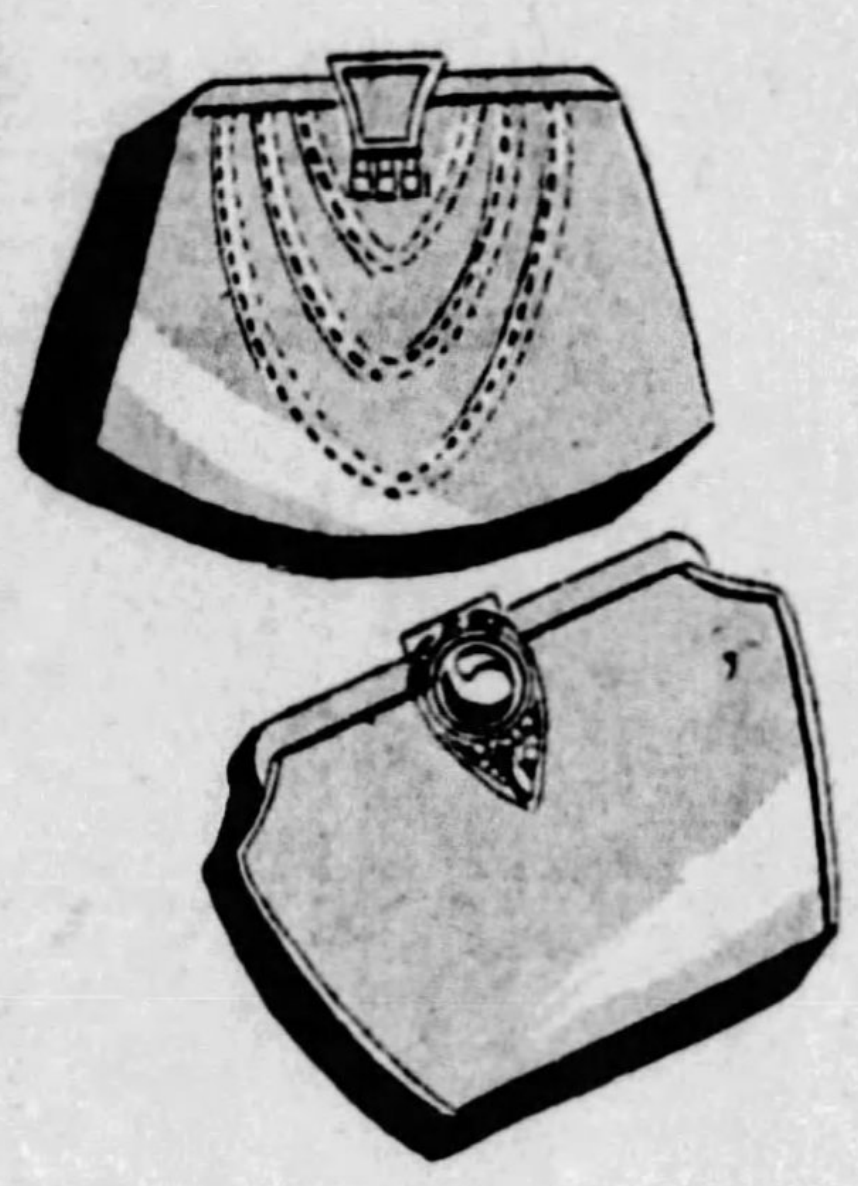
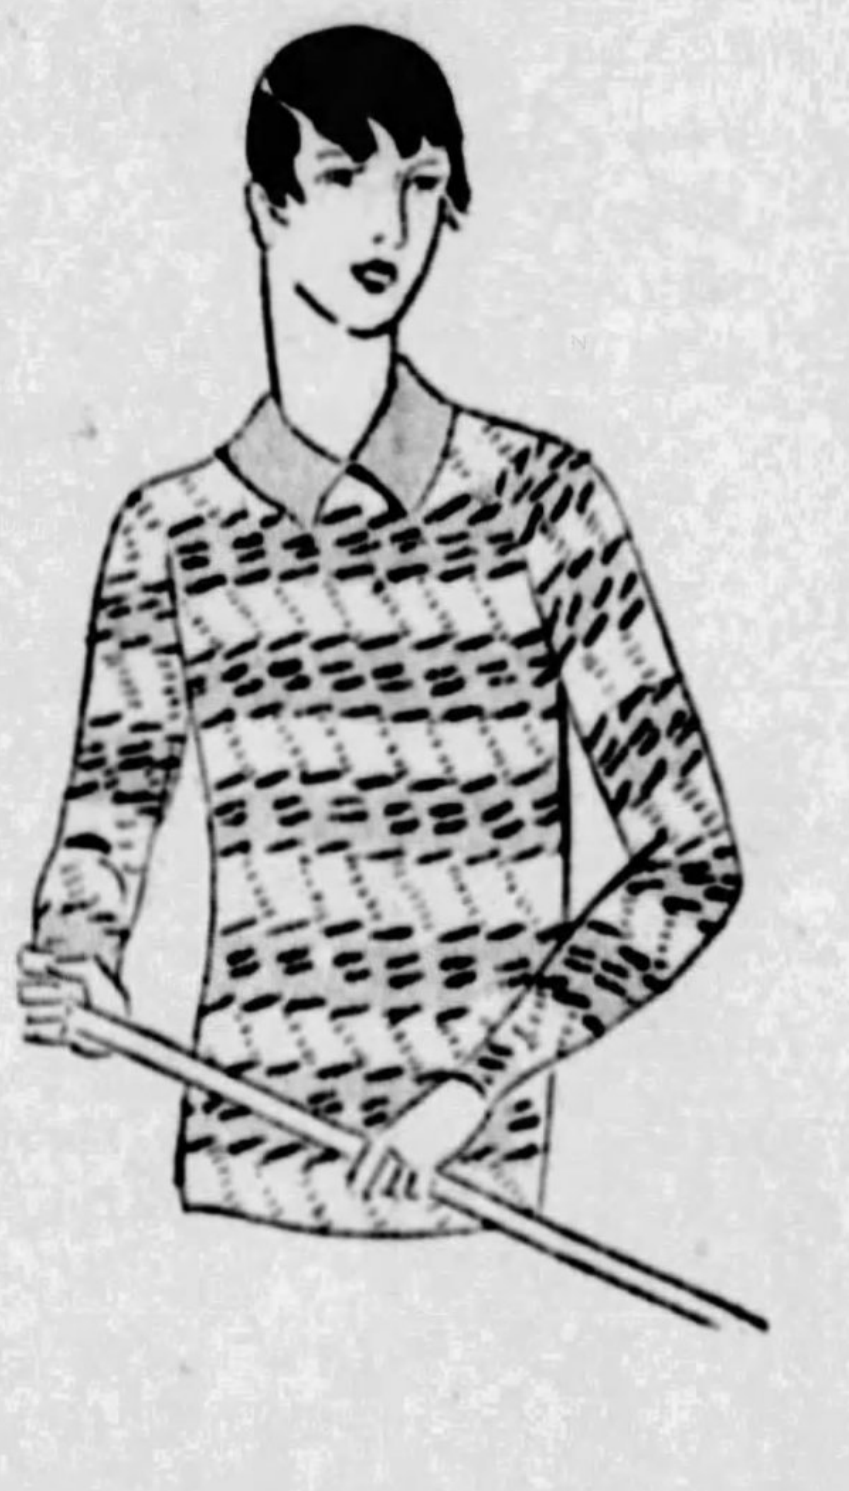
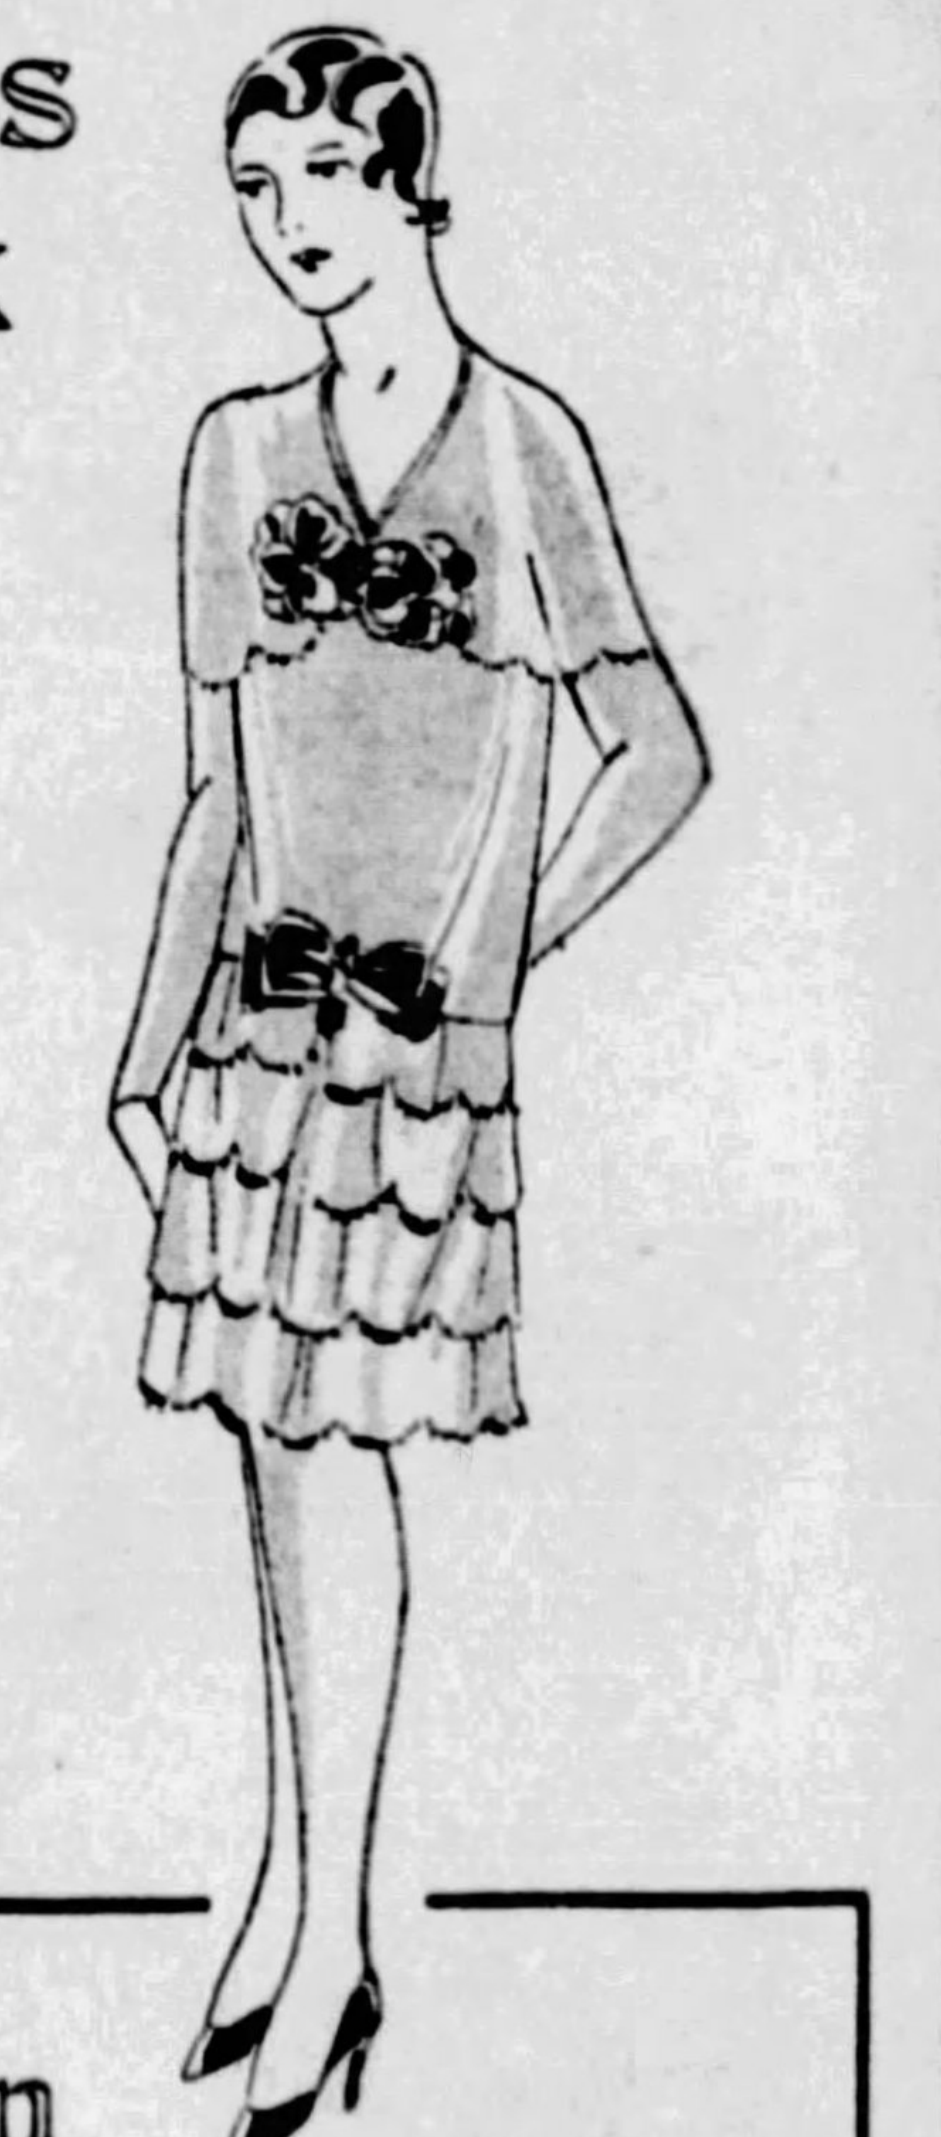
Just Arrived at McCreery's . . .


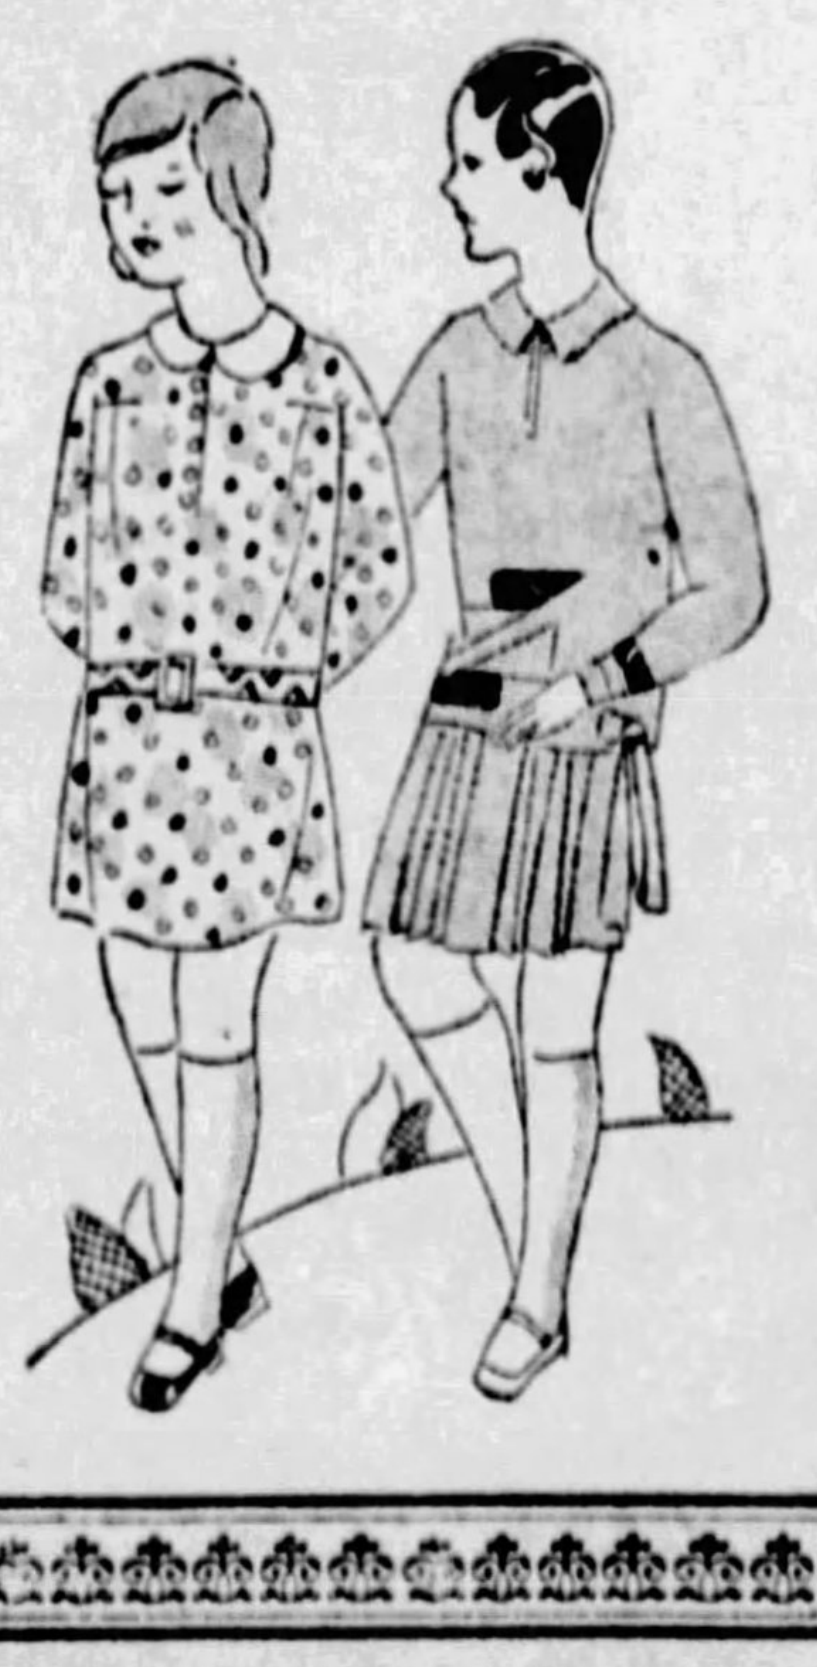
Newest Designs in Leather Hand Bags
Shoe Calf . . . Cire Calf and Cocoanut Grain
Admirable for their simplicity of line—yet they achieve distinction by their very smart new shapes. Charm is added by smart marcassite or metal clasps . . . some with clever stitching. Silk lined, finely fitted and in the colors chic for Autumn.
$8.50 to $12.95
(McCreery's—Street Floor)



McCreery's Present the New . . . .
"Club Collar" Sweater a Favorite of Falltime
Perhaps because it has that spirit of business-like activity about it . . . perhaps just because it is youthful and chic. At any rate, many of the smart younger sets are wearing McCreery's club-collared sweater, as illustrated here.
Presented in the new claret and signal reds . . . Independence blue . . . Normandy and Lanvin greens.
$2.95 to $7.95
(McCreery's—Fourth Floor)

A Chic Junior Miss Afternoon Frock


Catering to Youthful Charm—A Fashion for the Afternoon Tea or Matinee
$39.50
The frock illustrated is in crepe Elizabeth—signal red or moderne blue—two of Autumn's cheerful tones. Its deep berthe, its picoted tiers, its matching velvet gardenias all attest to its chic.
Other frocks in the same price group are of satin with Alencon yokes in square or pointed effect . . . of compose' ribbon arranged in horizontal manner . . . of crepe hand-fagotted in geometric ways.
Junior Misses' Sizes 13, 15 and 17
(McCreery's—Third Floor)

Youthful New Frocks Displaying Dash and Color!
In Sizes 6 to 14 Years
$10.95


Fashions carefully evolved to appeal to the young girl—well aware of her just desire to be as individual and as trigly smart as big sister!
Gay challis, swank with belts of suede, "Queen O'Crepe" silk frocks in one or two-piece styles, tailored serge and clever jerseys. Some with smocking, applique, or linen collars and cuffs . . . and with artful pockets.
(McCreery's—Fifth Floor)

Five New Shades in Silk Mesh Hosiery $3.95 Pair
Most flattering to graceful new frocks, these mesh stockings of pure silk . . . with double silk welt terminating into picot tops.
"La Mouge" . . . a nude shade lovely for afternoon and evening.
"Cuban Sand" . . . a lighter nude with a tinge of rose.
"Nougat" . . . a deep sunburn shade for brown costumes.
"Argali" . . . dust tone to wear with black suede pumps.
"Garrieu" . . . darker than Nougat, with deeper rose cast.
(McCreery's—Street Floor)

NOW IS TIME TO GIVE TO MILK AND ICE FUND

Again there is a lull in the growth of the Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund. It has gone only to $2,173.27 and there isn't a single gift to give it even a gentle little boost upwards today.

Boys and girls, except in a few instances where belated benefit plans have been put into effect, seem to have little time to devote to the fund now that school is again the dominant interest in their young lives. But surely there are some boys and girls of an older growth who will contribute towards this splendid cause, than which there is no more worthy. To rebuild puny, scrawny little bodies into strong, sturdy ones, to bring smiles where once there had been only pain, to insure the happiness of homes by saving baby lives, and to lay a foundation for a strong future citizenry—truly this is no small task nor mean achievement.

In such an important work can you afford to say that you have had no share? Can you refuse the wordless (but not soundless) pleas of those hundreds of babies who are being cared for by the Milk and Ice Association and who are dependent upon your generosity for their safety and health during the winter that is to come? It takes $1.50 to feed a baby for a week.

P. & W. VA. ASKS BOND ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $10,000,000 in first mortgage gold bonds at 5 per cent, of which $3,000,000 would be actually sold and $7,000,000 would be held by the company.

The bond issue is sought to finance the first unit of construction of the Connellsville extension, which is to stretch 38 miles from a point near Pittsburgh to connect with the Western Maryland Railroad near Connellsville, Pa. The bonds would be issued at 95 per cent of face value. Negotiations with bankers in connection with the issue have not been concluded.

WORKING WOMEN SELDOM LOSE A DAY'S PAY NOW

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. R. C. HAZLETT
Station G., R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio

Eastwood, Ohio.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a weak, nervous, run-down condition, seven years ago, after my baby was born. Some of the girls in the factory where I worked when I was able, advised me to take it. I got one bottle and that helped me so much that I took one after another until I had taken nine in all. But now I just get a bottle when I begin to feel badly, for I must say the medicine sure helped me and I am able to work every day. I will answer any questions anyone asks me, for I think your medicines are fine."—MRS. R. C. HAZLETT, Station G., R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio.

Recommends the Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was working in a factory and I was always on my feet, being the supervisor there. This caused my health to fail and I really was run-down very badly as I had no appetite at all and could not eat enough. I am taking the Vegetable Compound and also the Pills for Constipation. I have recommended them for several years and am safe in saying that probably 25 women have been helped through taking my advice. I am glad for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—MRS. E. A. FRANCKEY, 1261 Cypress Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of my dear husband, Gustave John, who died 1 year ago today, September 10, 1927.
More and more each day we miss him
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they know the sorrow lies
Within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by his wife and family.

The Prince of Wales ~ His Story.

Vastly Amused by Efforts Of Matchmaking Friends To Find Him Bride

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, heir to the British throne, was born in 1894. Guilty of much mischief during his childhood days, he was often punished. When he grew older he was sent to Osborn Naval College and later to Oxford. During the World War he became a captain in the Army and went to France, but was not permitted to get into actual fighting. After the war he made his first tour of Canada and then visited the United States. Later he toured Australia, India and Japan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

EDWARD P.

By WALTER and LEONARD TOWNSEND

PRINCE OF WALES

H. R. H. undoubtedly looks best in uniform. The Prince possesses perhaps the largest wardrobe of any man in the world. It is said that he possesses no less than 72 suits and 30 different uniforms. But his extensive wardrobe is part of his stock in trade as Prince and if he were allowed to follow his own inclinations he would possess only the usual number and assortment of clothes possessed by a well-dressed sport-loving young Englishman.

There is always some incident in his tours and visits which is not on the official program They all speak of his warm sympathy and sincere regard for his fellowman.

During a visit to Leeds the Prince was so touched by the condition of many of the patients in the General Infirmary that he sent a nurse to his motor car for a quantity of roses which had been presented to him earlier in the morning. He himself carried the flowers and laid a number of them on the white coverlets of the beds. When his supply was exhausted he sent for the roses in the vases which decorated his car, and distributed these too!

Another little scene was laid on the Doncaster Station platform. The Mayor and many other civic dignitaries awaited His Royal Highness to alight from the train.

In the doorway of his Pullman coach, the Prince hesitated and gazed anxiously back into the compartment. There was a short bark and a pleased "wuff" and a terior wagged his tail as he caught sight of his Royal master. "Take care of 'Cora,' won't you? the Prince called to the attendant as he stepped on to the platform to gravely welcome the representatives of Doncaster.

During his West of England tour, the Prince sitting on a bundle of straw, descended by a rope-and-pulley railway into a steep declivity. In deference to his safety the truck attendant descended at a very slow speed,, but the Prince grew impatient. "Faster! Faster!" he called and soon he was rattling down the 45 degree gradient at a tremendous rate—but the Prince thoroughly enjoyed the thrill.

Has Tense Nature

On the same tour he was showered with roses and in some of the villages, his path was strewn with blossoms. At a little place called Sticklefall a maiden threw a bunch of roses into his car—or attempted to do so. The aim was not quite true and the roses fell on the road. The Prince immediately stopped his car until the girl had recovered her roses, then he took them personally through the window of his car.

Too much really is made of the Prince of Wales' shyness. Granted that occasionally he passes his hand to his tie to straighten an imaginary twist, granted that occasionally he looks a trifle bewildered or confused, and that he has quick, nervous movements, these signs are not confined to shy people. As a matter of fact, the circumstances under which the Prince lives, day by day, are not calculated to engender reposeful poise.

It is perfectly true, however, that the Prince is high-strung. But this does not mean that he suffers from "nerves" or requires any kind of temporary or permanent medical attention. His is a tense nature—easily moved when not confronted with affairs of state—either to sadness or gaiety. Coupled with the fact that he lives constantly at a high pressure, his nature is eager and he is apt to be impatient of delays of any kind. This is always a characteristic of impulsive, generous temperaments. The very fact that the Prince prefers a pipe is a sufficient indication to many psychologists that behind his superficial "nervousness" there is a steady poise.

Outlook on Marriage

There is one subject which is a very delicate one, yet upon which the Prince is always vastly amused though at first it caused him annoyance. It is the efforts of matchmaking admirers of his to find a bride.

Successively, suitable ladies have been "discovered" in America, Italy, France, Spain, Norway, the Balkans, Australia, Canada; indeed, every country and state in the world. Whether they failed to suit the Prince or not is unknown, but the fact is that he never saw but two or three of them in person. The Prince is reported to keep an album full of cuttings containing "news" of his various impending engagements which he shows to the favored few whom he entertains at Marlborough House. Whether this is true or not there is no doubt that the Prince takes all these rumors in good spirit.

It is not easy to define Prince Edward's outlook upon marriage. It is certain that he regards the sanctity of marriage so seriously that he will not be thrust into a marriage of convenience, but whether his sustained bachelorhood is due to an inherited indifference to the company of ladies or whether it is due to shyness of their charms, many people would like to know.

The Prince has, no doubt, inherited from his father a preference for the company of men. Shy with ladies he is certainly not. One has only to remember that in the pursuit of one of his favorite indoor pastimes—dancing—he is constantly to be seen dancing with pretty partners of all classes of society and is voted a charming and pleasant young man entirely free from awkward constraint or nervousness. At one dance, the Prince piloted his partners through the dense throng of revelers and moved shoulder to shoulder with shop girls, farmers' daughters, typists and factory hands. Every few steps he bumped into somebody and offered and accepted apologies. "He is just like dancing with any ordinary man, except that he is a better dancer!" was the opinion of one girl with whom he danced.

Retaining the best of the so-called old-fashioned beliefs in his creed of modernity, the Prince is a firm disciple of the belief that there is no use in marrying without love. Because he has not yet

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN ONE of the old readers, McGuffey's probably, as everything seems to have been handed down to us by the famous McGuffey boys, there is a story that a man who attacked the artistry of taxidermy as evidenced in the nearby owl was amazed to see the owl fly away. There is, perhaps, a local parallel. George M. P. Baird of the County Art Commission suggested to Maj. D. L. Wright, superintendent of construction on the County Court House, that the signs marking the various county offices were of mere paper only to discover that the plain black letters on a white field were made of expensive and durable art glass.

A story on charitable organizations: A Pittsburgh man died and asked that his furniture be given to a certain charitable organization. The lady entrusted with this mission duly called the organization. She was told the furniture would be called for in a day or so. Nobody came for it. Several calls proved in vain. Two other organizations were then called by the lady. Promises were made but not fulfilled. It was not until she called a fourth organization that she disposed of the furniture.

As a result, the lady admonished her husband that henceforth no donations of money or anything else is to be given to any but the organization which answered her appeal to give something away.

A GREAT many reasons, and all sound, are given for motorists who do not give boys along the streets a lift when the boys go through those gestures indicating somewhat frantically that they want a ride. Our reason is a little different from the usual apoligies. We don't give them a lift because most hitch hikers think they have to make talk to the driver, and since between two such total strangers, there are few things they hold in common, the weather being the chiefest, the conversation is likely to be stilted and altogether meaningless. Hitch-hikers, who would wear a sign: "I promise not to make talk," would increase their efficiency at least 80 per cent, we believe.

That embarrassed feeling, celebrated by Mr. Cook, comes along when, after you notice a fellow driver is doing something wrong to you, you turn around to give him the dirtiest look in the album, and then you discover he's an old pal. Instead of saying, as you intended, "You mean old brute," you put on a forced smile and say: "Hello, Ollie." The moral of this is that sometimes there is a sheep in wolf's clothing.

ONE word, whose pronouncing always makes us feel we talk like a New Yorker, is the word lozenge. It's a word that seems to have an air about it.

Number Two of a Series of Men Who Don't Break Into the News: F. C. Kenworthey, North Side. A collector of street car transfers, street car tokens, railway tickets and envelopes bearing canceled stamps of all nations. He has been at his collecting for 10 years. He has street car tokens from practically every city in the country. Some of these he has gathered, curiously enough, in Pittsburgh. It appears that some of our dishonest passengers drop a Pekin (Ill.) token into a Pittsburgh fare box when the conductor is not looking. Rather than save this Pekin (Ill.) token until that day when they visit Pekin, local railway officials oblige Mr. Kenworthey by adding to his collection. The majority of tokens, however, have been gathered by the collector on his many trips to all parts of the country. His collection of foreign transfers is one of his prizes. Transfers issued by the Constantinople Railways Company are printed in "Turkey," French and English. In Mexico, where quite a few of the natives do not read easily, pictures and symbols are used. In all, the collector has 7,000 transfers and 125 tokens. He is the only transfer collector in Pittsburgh. There are about 50 in the country. Europe has many more. They correspond with one another, make exchanges and compare notes. One man has written a book on the subject. It was the review of that collector's book here which prompted Mr. Kenworthey to show us his display.

SAY! THAT'S NOT A PGH. TOKEN !!

GAS EXPLOSION WRECKS HOME

FAMILY SHOCKED

L. M. Kampharis, 57, today is in Pittsburgh Hospital suffering burns and shock resulting from a gas explosion which wrecked his home, 7010 Willard street, and Mrs. Mary Kampharis and her two children, Ethel, 7, and Louis, 5, who were asleep in an adjoining room, suffered shock.

JOHN COOLIDGE'S GIRL ADMITS 'UNDERSTANDING'

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Miss Florence Trumbull was back from Europe today $1.50 richer because John Coolidge did not meet her at the pier. She won bets from girl friends who toured with her.

But the daughter of the Governor of Connecticut has an "understanding" with the son of the President of the United States. That is how she described their relations. She added that reports of an engagement were "premature."

CONFIDES IN CAPTAIN

When Capt. Harvey, of the Lapland, on which she returned yesterday, asked her when the wedding was to be, she confided to him "not before Christmas." Friends of the Trumbull family have believed for some time that a White House wedding is in prospect before the close of Mr. Coolidge's term next March 4.

Miss Trumbull was met by her mother, who took her at once to their home in Painville, Conn., which is easily accessible to Northampton, Mass., where John has been recently. Miss Trumbull's bets about John meeting her at the pier were two—one for $1 and one for 50 cents.

Asked if she would not like to be married in the White House, she answered, "Oh, yes, that would be thrilling," and then regretfully, "but there isn't much chance of that. You see, John has got to work and earn some money."

JOHN CONSIDERS JOB

The President's son is considering entering the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway as a freight clerk, which pays a maximum of $30 a week. He has asked to be assigned to the station at Hartford, so as to be near Miss Trumbull.

Informed that there had been rumors her engagement was to be announced September 15, she said she "didn't know a thing" about it as she had been away and would have to "find out" when she saw her mother.

Specifically asked if it were not true that she and John had an understanding, she said: "We understand each other. Yes, we have our own understanding."

"Were the reports of your engagement perhaps premature?

She laughed merrily.

"Yes, premature, that's the word."

MICHIGAN GIRL FOUND HERE TO BE RETURNED

Arrested at the request of Detroit police, Sylvia Stetz, 17, is being held in the East Pittsburgh police station pending the arrival of relatives who will return her to her home in Fordson, Mich. She was arrested yesterday in a house in Center street, East Pittsburgh, in company with George Powanda, 21, who also lives in Fordson. She told police she ran away from home, intending to marry Powanda.

HEAT CLAIMS ONE VICTM

A heat prostration was reported to the police yesterday. Martin Plaza, of 2418 Stromberg street, South Side collapsed on the street near the Mission street pumping station and was taken to the South Side Hospital. The hospital said he was suffering heat prostration.

Driverless Auto Wrecks Shop, Imperils 3

L. Nathanson, who conducts a delicatessen store at 3001 Center avenue, and two clerks had narrow escapes from injuries last night when a runaway automobile plunged through the front window into the store, upsetting counters and other fixtures.

The automobile, owned by M. J. Gold, of 3039 Center avenue, was parked in front of his home, police say, when a boy turned the wheels away from the curb. The machine ran down the street, onto the sidewalk and crashed through the store front, causing $2,000 damage.

It is cooler in the central and southern Rockies, and portions of Arizona and Utah, while temperatures have risen in the Lake region, central valleys and plains states.

RACER HITS STAND, 21 KILLED

International News Service.

MONZA, Italy, Sept. 10.—The death list in the tragic accident which marred the automobile grand prix of Europe was increased to 21 today when two of the injured died.

The accident occurred on the eighteenth lap when Materassi, the best known motor car racing driver in Italy, while passing the grandstand at a speed estimated at 120 miles an hour, struck the car driven by Foresti. Materassi had swung his car to pass Foresti's automobile when the right wheel struck the latter's automobile. Materassi's car swerved across the track while the driver fought desperately to gain control of it. Suddenly it overturned, being carried by its own impetus across the barrier and ditch constructed for the safety of the spectators and into the crowded grandstand.

There was a chorus of screams as the heavy body was hurled into the stand. Then arose the groans of the wounded. There was a near panic until the police got the crowd under control.

DEDICATE NEW WEST VIEW CHURCH

The Rev. G. B. Tejan, secretary of the eastern district of the Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio, was the principal speaker yesterday at the dedication of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Ridgewood avenue, West View. Services will be held every night this week. Nearly 600 persons were present at the dedication of the new edifice which replaces the structure destroyed two years ago by fire. The Rev. L. P. Spoehr is pastor.

A Mystery; Name Him!

RECOGNIZE HIM?

Honestly, now, if you were asked, could you tell the name of the traffic patrolman on your corner, the one who speaks to you when you pass by? The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, if you can't, will help you a bit. Each day there is published the photograph of one of the city's traffic officers. Here is one for today. His name tomorrow!

SATURDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS JEROME AMBROSE, MARRIED, 6919 KEDRON STREET, WHO DIRECTS TRAFFIC AT CENTER AND HIGHLAND AVENUES. HE IS A FOUR-YEAR VETERAN.

Will Rogers Says

NEWTON, Kans., Sept. 10.

The farmers starve three years out of four. But the good year is always election year. It really looks like the Lord was in cahoots with the Republicans.

But if He is, that would make you almost lose faith in Him.

Even up to nominating time this year the farmers wanted relief. Now they are so prosperous they would be insulted if you suggested it to 'em.

Same way, four years ago, LaFollette was figuring on their support and he run into a bumper crop.

So the only way the Democrats will ever get the farmers' vote is to hold the election in the spring when they are broke.

Yours, WILL.

Rudolph Valentino's Brother Alters Face and Gets Role as Step Toward Filling Shoes

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.

TWO years, almost to the day, after the death of Rudolph Valentino, his brother, Alberto, secured his first "break" in the movies. Alberto, whose real name is Guglielmi, appears on a casting sheet as Albert Valentino. He has been assigned to a minor role in "Tropic Madness," a picture starring Leatrice Joy.

Alberto recently resorted to plastic surgery in order that his face might be remodeled to more nearly resemble the features of his famous brother. He is a modest chap, well liked by the few intimate friends he has made. But it is doubtful if he will ever fill even one of the shoes left behind by the beloved Rudy.

Mention of plastic surgery reminds that Molly O'Day's appendicitis operation has resolved itself into a surgical attempt to gain relief from the avoirdupois which is her chief worry. And which has cost her several good parts since her triumph in "The Patent Leather Kid." The medicos have removed some five pounds of flesh from Molly's plumpness, and her hip measurement has been reduced a full three inches. Her legs have also been subjected to treatment, and now Molly is undergoing a further rigorous regime in a desperate final effort to emerge properly sylphlike.

Contrary to Molly, Ruth Taylor, who can ill afford to reduce, has emerged from her fight with flu germs 13 pounds lighter. Too bad that she and Molly cannot swap around a bit and remold themselves "nearer to the heart's desire."

In England they're calling "yellies" by another name. On the other side they are "audibles"—The "h" being pronounced as usual.

Clive Brook has had his plans changed by Paramount and will appear in "Four Feathers." The part is that of a blind soldier, and it requires an actor of Clive's great ability.

Edward Everett Horton is to make three talkies for Warner next year. The balance of 1928 will be devoted to his stage engagements.

GUILD OPENER SEPT. 24

The Prince Of Wales
His Story

experienced that emotion in its true intensity, the Prince does not get married.

But the Prince by no means lacks friends of the fair sex. One of his favorite companions before her marriage to his brother, the Duke of York, was Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyons, and the Princess Christina, of Spain, who recently made her debut, is another friend of the Prince's. He likes to partner the Princess in tennis sets, and he played some good games with her in the Summer of 1927 when he was in Spain.

Chapter XVIII.

On Holiday Bent

FOR the past four years the Prince's life has been a particularly strenuous one. Now, however, in the summer of 1923, he decided to take a complete rest from his work and spend a short time on his ranch in Alberta.

This visit to Canada being of an entirely private nature, it was made known that the young Prince did not intend to take part in any official engagements during the time he was in the Dominions.

Before his holiday commenced, however, there was much work to be done at home. As President of the British Empire Exhibition, the Prince found a great deal of his time taken up in completing the necessary arrangements to make the exhibition the success he desired. Towards the end of June he invited and entertained a party of press magnates to luncheon in the exhibition grounds in Wembley—to inspire them, as he explained, with an enthusiastic interest in a project of the highest imperial importance. Earnestly, and at some length, he spoke of his eagerness to make the venture a success both as regards home trade and industry and that of each and every overseas dominion. Despite the setbacks he had had to face he assured the gathering that the organization of the British Empire exhibition was now on an indisputably sound basis, and that there could be no obstacles in the future to hinder or impede progress. It was a brilliant success the Prince of Wales was striving to attain—not merely a moderate one! He went on to say that it was a bold challenge which the Empire Exhibition made to the world when it undertook the task of launching this enture so closely upon the immediate chaotic industrial aftermath of the great war. But now that the challenge had been made, it must be carried through to a successful conclusion. The world, in other words, must be shown that the British Empire possessed that same unity, courage and perseverance in peace time as when confronted by the stress and strain of war.

Appreciates Newspapers

The Prince had not been slow to observe and appreciate the help and support which the British press had voluntarily given him regarding his past appeals and public work, and on this occasion he exhorted them to assist him once more—not as a personal favor but because the venture was worthy, really and truly, of their support. In conclusion, the Prince remarked on the bad times which were being experienced equally by individual trader and large capitalistic concern, and paid a tribute to the whole-hearted manner in which they had backed up the enterprise of which he was President.

After the luncheon, the Prince conducted his guests round the grounds in order that they might see how work was progressing.

The British press has always been a good friend to the Prince of Wales. Once, at a newspapermen's dinner at which the Prince was present, he admitted the fact. "The press and journalists have always been very good friends to me," he said. "But I have one bone to pick with them!" After a slight pause the Prince went on to explain. It appears that the Prince was once stabling his horse at a wayside inn when the landlord said: "You look extremely like the Prince of Wales!" Receiving an evasive answer, the landlord added: "Yes, I have seen a lot of photographs of the Prince of Wales, but you look a good deal younger!"

The Prince went on in humorous vein: "We have our morning journals, and by a wise dispensation of Providence, we have our evening journals as well, so that if the morning papers make a slight error, their evening contemporaries can set them right."

Although the long-delayed holiday was drawing near, the Prince was not content to idle away his time in the seclusion of York House.

Diana and Her Friends Arrive at Yacht Club For the Party

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On his first day in Manor Park, where he is to apply the business methods learned in college, Benjamin Carrington Black has occasion to observe three of the suburban town's most alluring examples of femininity. Unnoticed by men, he sees Diana Rand—nineteen and pretty, enter a jewelry store with her friend, Beatrice Sheldon, whose trailing dress is reminiscent of the Gay Nineties. In the store Diana and Bea encounter Ann Evarts, a trim, petite person. Ann in Diana's roadster sees Noddy and Toddy and Norman Gregory and leaves Diana and Beatrice to join them. Bea is furious as she and Diana drive away. She is madly in love with Gregory. Norman hears about Benny being in Manor Park and looks him up. He locates him and invites him to a party at the Yacht Club. He consents to go. Bea and her brother, Freddie, prepare for the party and before leaving their parents warn them to behave like "Sheldons."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

TENDERNESS wiped from Hanna's eyes—they went sharp and cold as she towered over the table, hands on her hips, feet planted in flapping old bedroom slippers.

"No, you're not!" Her voice was tense, husky with fear and determination. "Know how we're fixed right now? Two months' living ahead if we're careful! I didn't want to tell you this, but there it is. Two months—less if anything happens—and then a job. For you, too, young lady—don't forget that. Why, you little fool, do you think I like this any better than you do? It's our last chance!"

Dismay swept the petulant flower face and Hanna took another tack. "Come now, baby, don't make it harder. Something is going to happen tonight; I feel it. And I've made over your green tulle so you'd never know it. Be reasonable, can't you!"

"Very well, Mother." Ann sighed, ate a little of the chipped beef and drank the milk.

A tap at the door—Hanna cleared the dishes out of sight before she answered. While her back was turned her daughter sidled over to the dresser and with a movement incredibly wary pulled out a drawer, tumbled the contents, thrust something into the folds of her negligee.

But the mother had seen. She had taken a florist's box and turned back in time to catch Ann's movement in the mirror; now she placed the box on the bed and glared at the girl who was powdering her nose with a great show of innocence.

"You're sneaking my stockings again!" She hurled the accusation and Ann's eyes met her in the glass with a look of shocked grief.

"Mother!"

Hanna plunged over, grabbed at a chiffon length fallen into sight. "Whata little liar you are! After all I've done—"

Ann's head was up, blue eyes blazing. "You always keep the best things for yourself! Yet you expect me to pull us out—I'm going to stay home tonight, you hear? And you can keep your old stockings."

Hanna gave way then, released her clutch on the stocking which almost had been torn asunder between them, and the youngster returned to her careful dressing, purring like a kitten.

It remained for the mother to open the florist's box, which she did in a glad, triumphant way, exclaiming at the name on the side. "Franley! That's good, baby. Ten per cent from him for everything sent you. . . . But . . ." She had lifted out the flowers, a fragrant sheaf of American beauties together with a corsage of orchids. These were laid aside; it was the card that held her startled gaze. She read it in a strained voice: "Hurrah for crime—rhapsodies—Freddie." And once again hung above the girl, whirling her about with a heavy hand. "What does this mean?" she demanded.

Ann shrugged away from the grip on her shoulder and the sweet face lacked only years to make it as hard as the scowling one. Don't worry, Mother. I'm not going to marry Freddie. Money all sewed up till he's thirty, and even then he's out of luck if his old crab of a father doesn't like his wife."

"That's all very well, but—" The woman's look was terrible though it brought only a sneer. "You needn't bother about my conduct. I'm not a fool."

Hanna, relaxed, moved away heavily and Ann slipped into pale green tulle, swishing about as in dance-steps, practising before the mirror the fairy-like posings in which she placed her trust.

"But," she flung over her shoulder, "wait till I'm married! Maybe then I won't have a fling!"

"Wait till you're married!" Hanna echoed. Her smile was complacent. The end of the struggle, once Ann was married; she felt no interest in what her daughter might do after the long-hoped-for day.

A motor horn sounded down in the street. This was Freddie and with the second blast Ann snatched her wrap. Without a word of farewell and with no backward look she dashed away.

CHAPTER VI.

THE Yacht Club had been trimmed with gay streamers and pennants fluttered all along the balcony, lending to the big ballroom the look of a yacht dressed for holiday. But the mad touch was hundreds of toy balloons, bobbing up and down against the ceiling, here and there, in colorful chaos, dangling long strings for dancers to snatch as they whirled about the floor.

Just out of reach the strings was Di, arriving a bit late with her party, gave a little shriek of delight and jumped for one, only to fall back defeated.

It was then Noddy and Toddy caught her up, holding her by the ankles and rushing down the room while the drummer rolled a salute and the crowd cheered.

Whooping excitedly, she gathered in balloons right and left. Midst shouts of "Atta-girl!" the boys put her on a table and she stood laughing up at her prizes, a slim, graceful sprite of a figure, all sparkle, inspiration of a new, free note in the fun.

The orchestra leader glanced over his railing, brought his baton up, then down. Quick, chuckling strain tumbled from the instruments. This was the music for the eccentric solo dance the crowd forever begged Diana to do. She flashed a grin to the applauding revelers and her little feet began to move.

A combination of tap hoofing and athletic genius it was with steps she had invented herself—a finished performance, artistic and beautiful, simple only because she did it so well. The high heels led the orchestra, slowing the tempo sometimes, then speeding it to a whirlwind clatter with all the instruments banging and the saxophonists turning quite purple with the effort to keep up.

And when she stopped there was so much disdain that she must give an encore—then another while the crowd kept time by waving handkerchiefs and fans and captured balloons.

But in the end Diana signalled Noddy and Toddy and brought the thing to a finish with a swan dive from the table straight into their arms. They bore her away as the "little man in the tin box" mopped his head and struck into a fox trot and everybody danced.

Norman was waiting by the veranda. He pulled Diana outside and his hand on her arm shook a little.

"Di—it's Bea—something wrong. She went to the dressing room. . . I don't understand—well, you know how I feel about her. We were talking things over again and she ran away."

"Of course I know, Norman. And I don't understand either. I'll find her."

"Please." He gripped her hand, held it hard. "Bless you," he said. "Make her see—do this for us both. She's miserable. Well—"

"In the dressing room Beatrice was bending over, pretending to adjust her slippers but Diana saw a tea-spash on the gray gown. She put her arms around the other girl, whispered, "Dear, tell Di, can't you?"

"Oh—you don't know—can't guess! I love him so. . . . He wants me to marry him—"

"But that's nothing to cry about, ole sweet. Snap into it! I can think of worse things than marrying Norman Gregory."

"But—"

"Steady, now." She thumped Beatrice on the back to still the sobs which kept knocking at her throat; brought water and made her drink. The dark girl quieted slowly and sat staring at nothing, deep eyes brooding over some secret thought. Suddenly a bright recklessness swept her; she cried. "Oh, the devil—why worry?" and started to peel off her stockings, throwing them to the maid. "Park these, Marie. And you, Di, help me with this skirt."

Between them they caught up the skirt so it failed by a trifle to cover the bare knees and now the gray frock was more daring than Diana's, running mostly to the panel in front which, after all, was very narrow. Not the demure frump who had left home, this Beatrice, but a provocative, sensuous creature, rather abandoned in every careless movement.

Diana kept looking at her in a puzzled way, a frown etching itself between the level gray eyes. She, too, did those things; sometimes she wore no stockings; her gowns were without bodices and almost without skirts; often she gave herself over to sinuous hula postures.

But there was a difference. She—Diana—was joyous, burlesquing it all, while her friends made it evil. Thinking of this she burst out, "Oh, Bea—why?"

"Why not? You see—" But the confidence was interrupted when Ann Evart tripped in daintily, glimpsed Beatrice with surprise, rushed up and kissed her.

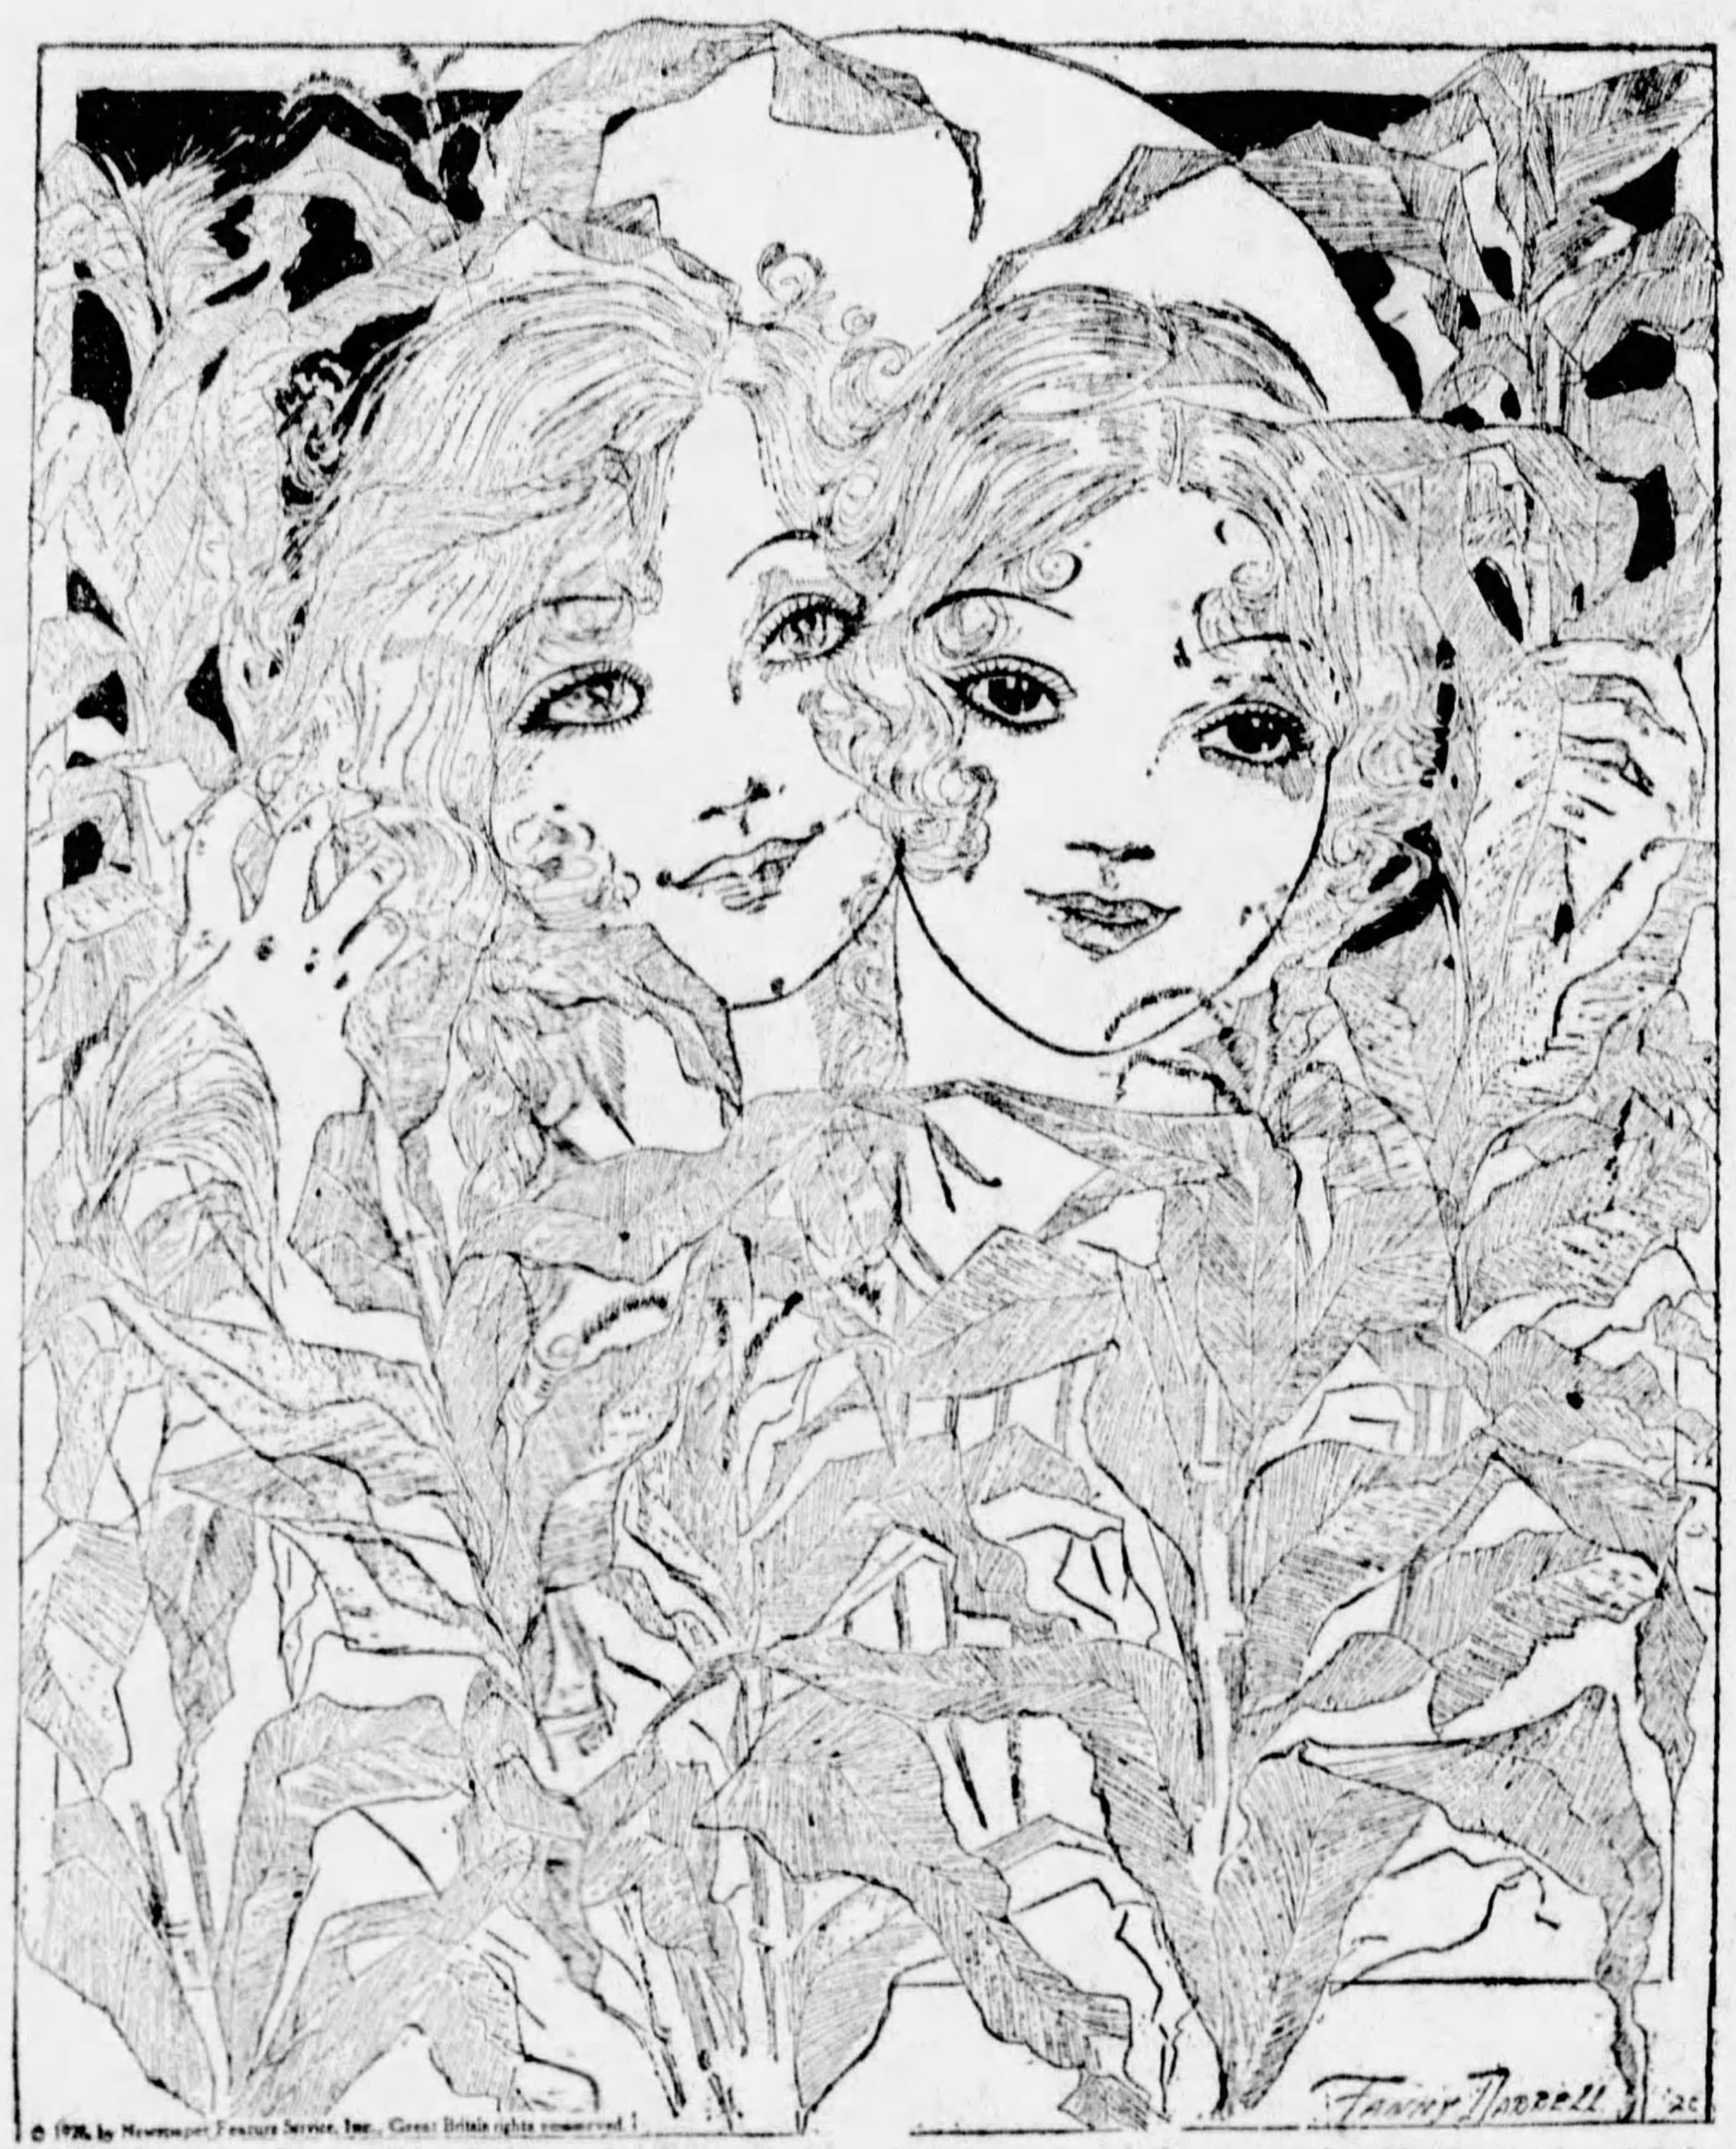
Corn Flowers -:- By Fanny Darrell



© 1928, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

WHO doesn't love the dainty loveliness of the exquisite kornblumen! Borrowing the blue from the skies, they lift their shaggy little heads to the sun and cheer everyone with their shy greeting.

But there are human corn flowers, too. And they're just as lovely and just as shy and just as dainty as the flowers they're named after. True, some of them aren't all blue and gold, but they're corn flowers just the same. In these gorgeous autumn harvest days when they go through the cornfield seeking the blood red ear that denotes their finding love and marriage within the ear, who can deny the charm of these "corn flowers?" Lovely flowers, a lovely name, lovely namesakes! And may all their dreams of love and happiness be speedily fulfilled.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Princess Olina Expresses an Unmistakable Interest in Noel

WAS the Princess Olina of Transylvania really as artless as she appeared while telling me that the place in her royal tour which she would remember longest was the night club where she first had seen Noel Veritzen?

The inference, of course, was unmistakable. She was in love with the young violinist. He dwarfed all other men in her estimation, even the extremely attractive Prince Georges of Trees, whom we knew under the name of George Logan Jackson. But was her betraying speech simply the unconscious revelation of a young girl's heart, or was she deliberately giving me notice that she meant to annex Noel, with a sub-current of warning to keep Mary Harrison, Dicky's lovely young niece, away from him?

These were the questions which swirled around my brain while I cautiously chose my answer to her query concerning Noel's rare skill with a violin.

"I think 'wonderful' is really the only word to express his personality," I said, smiling. "But while his playing is far, far above that of the average professional, yet I am afraid I cannot agree with you that he surpasses the great masters."

"I didn't mean quite that," she returned. "I meant that I'd rather listen to him than to the greatest of them all. I'm so glad he's out of that night club. He'll never go back to it, will he?"

Irritatedly, I wondered how far afield she would pursue this question of the young violinist's future, leaving her absorbing story of her escape hanging in space. But I forced my voice to nonchalance.

"I am sure he will not. It was always most distasteful to him, but it was the only livelihood open to him after—"

I stopped short, dismayed by the thought that I had been on the brink of referring to Noel's troubled history. But Princess Olina nodded comprehendingly.

"You mean, of course, after that college affair and his estrangement from his father," she said, while I choked back an exclamation of astonishment. How had she learned that old story? Had Noel himself, ordinarily the soul of reticence, confided in her? If so, I told myself, she had progressed much farther in her veiled contest with Mary Harrison for the boy's affection than I had guessed. A more plausible explanation was ready to my hand, however. Philip Veritzen already had betrayed his anxiety to throw Noel and the young mistress of The Larches together, while separating his son from Mary Harrison, although his reasons for such a course were unfathomable. But it was entirely probable that he had aroused the girl's sympathetic interest by an ingeniously constructed version of Noel's story.

I was to receive no farther enlightment upon the subject from Princess Olina, however. That she regretted her betraying little speech I saw by her quick flush and the haste with which she went back to the story of her escape from the royal party.

"I'll never finish telling you about my getting away if I keep wandering off like this," she said energetically. "It takes a long time to tell it, but my actual escape from the hotel didn't take long. Anna had brought a complete outfit of clothing different from any I had and had given it to the maid we had paid to help us. There was a small suite on the floor next above ours whose tenant was absent during the day, and in some way—I thought I'd better not inquire just how, the maid got the pass key to that floor for a minute or two when all of our family were at luncheon and smuggled me into that apartment. She'd put the clothes in there before.

"I didn't dare take any of my pretty toilet things, for I didn't want to carry any bundle out of the hotel, so I just tied up my jewels in a handkerchief, and when I got into that room I put on the dress and coat Anna had sent me right over the one I had. I already had put on shoes and stockings that looked like those worn by thousands of other girls, and I put the jewels into a big handbag which Anna had sent. The hat she'd sent came down almost over my eyes and the coat had a collar, so when I opened the door and slipped down the corridor to the elevator, I looked like anything but myself. There was nothing left in the room save a big piece of brown paper to show anybody had been in there, and I knew the maid could smuggle that out."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U. S. Senator from New York

Worry and Fretting Aggravate Trouble

A FEW weeks ago a prominent college president talked with me about his heart. There are plenty of students who would say no college president could possibly have a heart, but I am sure this one has a kind heart and, for that matter, most of them have.

DR. COPELAND

This particular college official complained about palpitation and other disagreeable heart symptoms. All of his ailments, if my conclusion is correct, are purely functional. That is, there is no real disease of this vital organ, but it is tired and disturbed by overwork, worry and late hours devoted to plans for college development.

When will men learn that common sense must prevail if health is to be unimpaired? I know scores of men and women, too, who are carrying unecessary, or, at least, impossible burdens. No wonder their hearts and nervous systems rebel.

I promised this friend of mine to prepare a series of articles devoted to the heart and its diseases. This will be the first of five such articles.

The fear of "heart disease" is almost universal. It is not at all uncommon to see a man feeling his pulse and counting its beats. This is a foolish habit. It is founded on worry and the practice adds fuel to the worry.

Do you know what a hypochondriac is? In these days of crossword puzzles there are no unfamiliar words. Everybody is studying the dictionary, and, in common with all the arts and sciences, medicine has become an open book.

For those who have not discovered the meaning of "hypochondriac" I will explain. He is a man who worries over himself, who imagines he has every disease, and is all the time in a fever of fear that he is going to have some serious ailment. He imagines that death, armed with a club, is waiting just around the corner.

One of the sure signs of hypochondriasis is to go about feeling your own pulse. This is not quite as bad as rushing after the clinical thermometer, to take the temperature two or three times a day. But it is a bad thing to do. Indeed, it is a silly thing to do.

It isn't a good idea to be too conscious of your body. It makes you worry and fret. If the pulse should happen to be a little bit rapid, to attempt to count it will cause it to become even more rapid, because the emotion of fear stimulates the heart. Then you imagine vain things and get a headache. Next the appetite is lost and pretty soon you may actually frighten yourself into a fever.

The pulse rate of a man is about 70 per minute, and of a woman 75 or 80. Within reasonable limits there is no particular significance in the rate. From 80 to 85 or 90 means little except to an expert.

The regularity of the pulse, its fullness or weakness, its softness or hardness—all these fastors are of interest to the doctor. They mean a good deal to him, but very little to the untrained person. "Skipping a beat," or other type of irregularity is of little consequence without other accompanying conditions which only the doctor can understand.

Leave your pulse alone and stop worrying over things you do not understand!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, September 11

THE general lunar and mutual configurations for this day point to the return for faithful diligence and responsibility in labor, the rewards being of a substantial and enduring nature. The effect may be reaped in honors, preferment or increase of salary in employment or with stimulated business enterprise. It is possible there may be some change or restlessness of slight degree and there may be an unconventional personal adventure.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of reward for diligence and application, as well as responsibility, especially in employment. The energy and spirit of initiative will be highly stimulated to further action, despite a note of restlessness or desire for change. Unconventional personal contacts are probable. A child born on this day may have much enterprise and ingenuity as well as practical qualities of industry and fidelity to bring it success in life.

Such hath it been—shall be—beneath the sun, the many labor for the one.—BYRON.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

SENTIMENT—ALL FLAVORS

TO the modern man Romeo's lovemaking would probably sound like just a lot of static.

The honeymoon isn't over until the bride goes right on reading her novel instead of rushing to powder her nose at the sound of her husband's key in the latch.

There may be other ways of making a man love you, but the surest and quickest way is by telling him he "ought NOT to." Woman was made from the rib of man, but man apparently was made from the rib of a mule.

Marriage is like a motor car. Most of us can afford the initial cost—but it's the running expenses, the taxes, the smashups and the lines that break a man.

A healthy conscience often binds a man to a woman long after his love has died of anemia.

Resignation is that point at which a girl stops announcing coldly that she will never marry a poor man and begins talking warmly of marrying "for love."

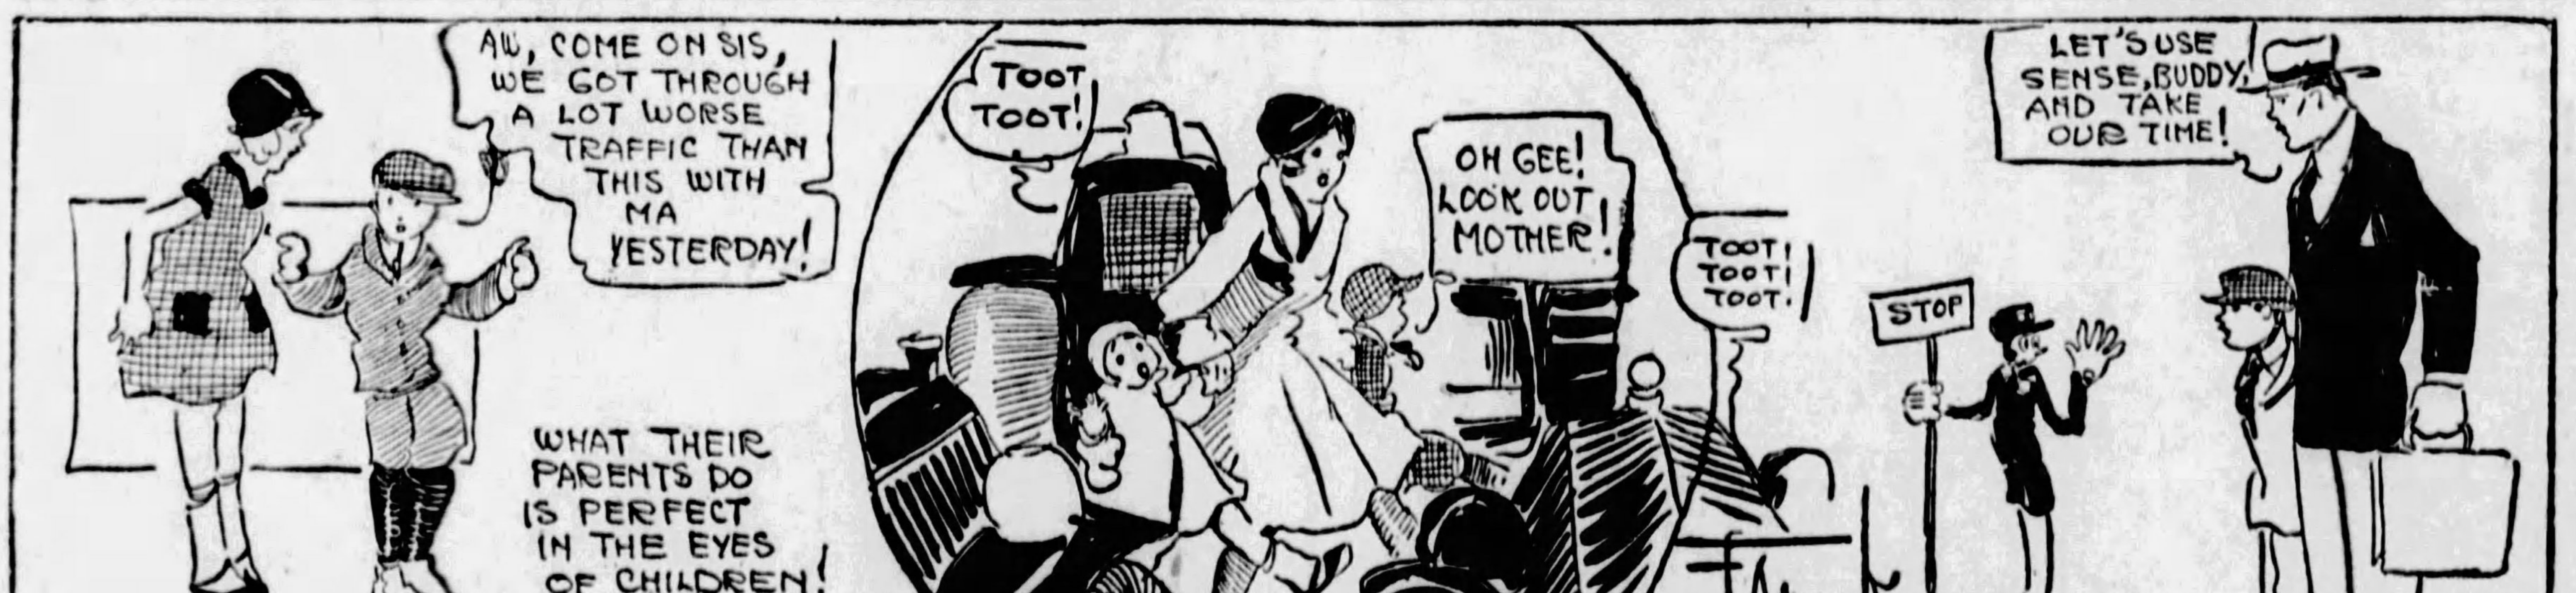
Fay Avers Parents' Bad Example Nullifies Warnings to Children



AW, COME ON SIS, WE GOT THROUGH A LOT WORSE TRAFFIC THAN THIS WITH MA YESTERDAY!
WHAT THEIR PARENTS DO IS PERFECT IN THE EYES OF CHILDREN!
TOOT TOOT!

By FAY KING

THE other afternoon I watched a mother with two cherub children dash out into the midst of onrushing traffic. She dodged this way and that, a child clutched in each hand.

Now, doubtless, when that mother sends the children out to play, she fills their little heads with warnings about never crossing the street until the traffic stops.

Children have the utmost confidence in parents.

Some parents seem to forget that they are the whole world to their children. Things they do may not seem important to parents, but are of the greatest importance to the child who looks solely to them for guidance and inspiration in all things.

Only an unwise mother drags her children through a maze of moving traffic, dodging this way and that.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Yanks Prove Themselves Real Champions in Crisis—Blow to Morale Hurts Chances of Mackmen—Bucs Improve Position—Joe Harris to Quit—Great Pitcher Passes in Shocker's Death.

A REAL champion ball club is one that plays best when it is cornered, when it faces a crisis that means success or ruin, and that's what the Yankees proved themselves to be yesterday in taking a tremendous brace at the crucial hour and regaining first place in the American League race by handing the Athletics a double defeat.

Miller Huggins

The series isn't over yet, and there is still a chance for the Mackmen to get an even break in it by winning the games scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday, but their pennant stock that was soaring prior to the beginning of play yesterday has taken a big drop, and the twin beating was a blow from the effects of which they may not recover.

FOR it isn't only a question of the ground lost, and the fact that the Yankees are now in the lead again by a game and a half. More important than anything else is the matter of morale.

The double triumph may be expected to fill the Yanks with new confidence, whereas it may be no easy thing for Connie Mack to get his athletes back in the same fighting pitch after the disastrous afternoon in which they saw their pennant hopes severely jolted.

THE mental attitude and spirit of the respective teams are bound to be a huge factor in deciding the fight, and right now the edge in that respect appears to be on the part of the Hugmen.

As in the case of the Pirates against the Cardinals—the season's series ended 15 to 7 in favor of St. Louis—the chief bar to the pennant success of the Athletics has been their inability to beat the one club they had to down in order to win out. Of the 20 games played between the Yanks and A's, the Macks have won only five.

THE victory of the Pirates in the final game at St. Louis yesterday by a five-run rally in the eighth inning when they looked like a beaten club, was pleasing not only for the improved position in which it placed the Bucs, but for the evidence it gave that Donie Bush still has players fighting to the utmost. The Corsairs are now a game and a half ahead of the Reds and only two and a half games below the Giants and third place, and will have a chance to better themselves further in the games at Chicago today and tomorrow, though the Cub pitchers will be troublesome if they keep up the form they displayed in the series with Cincinnati which ended yesterday. The Reds scored only two runs in the three games, and one of the contests went 14 innings.

JOE HARRIS, former Pirate now with the Robins, is playing his last year of baseball, according to his own statement. While the Brooklyn club was in Pittsburgh on its final 1928 visit, Harris told local friends that he was thinking seriously of retiring at the end of the present season, and now he announces a definite decision to quit.

Joe Harris

Though Joe, who is a native of Coulter and a resident of Franklin, Pa., is listed in the baseball records as having started his career at Bay City in 1913, in reality he played first professional ball with Senator W. D. Mansfield's McKeesport club in the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland League in 1907. He has been connected with six major clubs — New York, Cleveland, Boston and Washington in the American League and Pittsburgh and Brooklyn in the National.

PIRATES UPSET CARDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Pirates arrived in Chicago early this morning for their last battles of the season with the ambitious Cubs. Single games this afternoon and tomorrow will wind up strife between the natural rivals.

For this afternoon Manager Bush has Brame ready for slab duty. Boss McCarthy is expected to send Art Nehf to the mound.

The Freebooters were in a happy frame of mind as they reached Chicago, their good feelings being the result of their triumph in St. Louis yesterday in the farewell meeting of the Redbirds and Pirates. Trailing by four runs as they rode into the eighth against Aleck, the Great the Bushwhackers opened up and, with the aid of a bad throw by Wattie Holm, rushed over five counters, or enough to decide the tense struggle. The score was 8 to 7.

LARGE CROWD ON HAND

One of the biggest and noisest crowds ever attending a contest in St. Louis was out to see the finale. But the celebrating was premature as later events moved. The first big outbreak of the vast audience of 35,000 occurred in the sixth when Chick Hafey, unlocked a drawn battle with his twenty-fifth homer, the rocket sailing high into the left field seats.

The Waner brothers put on their act in the seventh and, aided by Sparky Adams, put the Pirates out in front by scoring two runs. In the home half of the inning, Rabbit Maranville, with one erased, singled to center to start a rally that took Fred Fussell out of action and brought Burleigh Grimes to the scene with three balls and no strikes on Douthit, runners on second and first and one out.

SUNNY JIM HITS HOMER

Grimes' first pitch put Douthit on the sacks and they were loaded for Ernest Orsatti, the little Italian caused a wild scene by hitting a double into the crowd that scored two runs. Sunny Jim Bottomley hit his twenty-eighth homer in the

Veteran Material Bolsters Geneva

By JESS M. CARVER,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 10.—They are busy on football here at old Geneva, where they have been putting a Covenanterish tinge on football for the past three years that threatens to take a long time in wearing off. They are so busy, in fact, that the new coach, Mac Flenniken, who was a great full back just a year ago, left the detailing of the squad and the outlook for the coming season to Mr. Edgecomb, the athletic director and to Bo McMillin, who coached Geneva to three Conference championships, and is now head coach of football on the Kansas Aggies.

Geneva lost six good football players from last year's undefeated eleven and they lost their coach. It is always a difficult task for a new coach to turn out a winning eleven, even though he is as familiar as Flenniken is with the Geneva squad, prospects and the general situation as it exists here and in the tri-state district.

Colonel Bo has been with the Covenanters for two weeks this fall and was here for spring practice. He has given Flenniken a good start, and if Mac is half the coach he was a player, the Geneva folk can erase any worry that might be present regarding the coaching situation.

The Covenanters face a 10-game schedule with a fine assortment of veteran material and some splendid looking newcomers. Maglisceau and Maddox, the tackles of last year's eleven are gone. So is Myers, center, and Babe Cullen, guard. Flenniken and Schachern are missing from the backfield.

NEW MEN LIKELY

In the matter of replacements for these absent ones (sounds like a death notice) Mac has Mentz, a 205-pounder; Campbell, Turpin, Johnston and Logue for the tackles. In addition, Haude, who played both

YANKS BEAT MACKS TWICE, TAKE LEAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The New York Yankees are back in first place today with a game and a half lead over the Philadelphia Athletics, and Connie Mack's great baseball machine again faces the gigantic task of overhauling the world champions.

The team which sloughed off a 13½-game lead in the last two months came back with a vengeance yesterday and defeated the Athletics twice, 5 to 0 and 7 to 3, in the most important double-header in the recent history of baseball before a record crowd of 85,265 persons—the largest ever.

The double defeat was a crushing blow to the Athletics and the Mackmen may not be able to gather their forces out of the wreckage to stage another pennant drive. The long, hard haul up the American League ladder in the past two months has taken a toll from the A's and they may not have the heart to recover from yesterday's bitter dose.

USES FOUR HURLERS

Connie Mack used up four of his pitching aces yesterday in an attempt to stop the Yanks, and they all failed him. John Picus Quinn started the first game and blew up after pitching five scoreless innings. Rube Walberg collapsed in the second game after holding the Yanks to one hit for six innings. Ossie Orwall was rapped for four hits and two runs in one inning of relief hurling in the first game. Ed Rommel was raked for three hits and four runs in one and one-third innings of relief pitching in the second game.

The official figures, announced by Secretary Ed Barrow: Paid attendance, 81,622. Receipts, $115,000. Press gate admissions, 3,643. Total attendance, 85,265. Largest previous attendance, 72,641.

SCALPERS PROSPER

While only 85,265 persons crowded into the stadium, at least 10,000 others saw the game from the roofs of apartment houses back of center field.

All tickets were sold before noon and speculators got as high as $25 for $2 seats.

The previous attendance record was 72,641, set on July 4, 1927, when the Yankees and Washington played.

BOB NEAR TOP AS SCORES SOAR

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—Bobby Jones, usually the master golfer, found his technique unequal to the task of conquering Braeburn's twisting terrain today, the champion taking a 40-37—77 in the first half of the qualifying round of the national amateur golf championship. The performance, far from Jones' customary speed, placed him a stroke behind the nominal leader at this point, Robert Gorton, of the home club, who got a 76.

However, all scoring was indifferent, and Jones proved he was human after all in playing his losing battle with par, which was 72.

His card follows:

Out ....6 5 4 4 6 3 4 4 4—40
In ....5 4 3 4 5 4 4 4 4—37—77

Meantime, the best Francis Ouimet could do was a 78 and Maurice McCarthy a 79. The only scorer in the field at this point, in fact, was Harrison Johnston, the great Minnesotan, who sped to the turn in 34 strokes, the first man to beat par on either nine.

CHAMPION IS WILD

Jones, going five strokes beyond par for the first nine, can trace his troubles to his inability to keep his shots on the line. He was putting soundly, though not sensationally, but his game through the fairway left much to be desired.

Bobby played five of the first six holes on the incoming nine in exactly par and the other one, the thirteenth, in a birdie 4.

Ouimet, who made golfing history on the nearby course at Brookline in 1923, played well within himself to score two 39's for a total of 78. He beat McCarthy, intercollegiate champion, by a stroke, the latter wasting one in the rough on the edge of the eighteenth. Their cards follow:

DELANEY VS. TASSI

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(INS.)—Jack Delaney's return to the ring will be made as a light-heavyweight. In first appearance since he was flattened in two rounds by Jack Sharkey six months ago, Delaney will take on Nando Tassi, heavy-fisted Italian light-heavyweight, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, a week from next Wednesday night.

Women, Pros In Big Events

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

SIX golf tournaments on local links mark today as one of the busiest of the season, opening a week of the sport that has hardly been equalled this year. Heading the list of district competitions are the championship of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, which finds the lassies of the links competing at the Allegheny Country Club, and the second annual professional invitation tournament, being played at the St. Clair Country Club.

The women's event, the qualifying round of which is carrying on at the Sewickley course this morning, has brought out the cream of local linkswomen, and Mrs. J. Bernd Rose of the home club is sturdily defending her title.

PROS AT ST. CLAIR

The professionals this morning are fighting for honors in an 18-hole medal play round, and, truth to tell, there is hardly a professional who holds a job in Western and Northwestern Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio or Northern West Virginia who isn't in a play. This afternoon, star amateurs of the St. Clair Country Club will pair off with the professionals in an amateur pro event. A dinner, with an elaborate entertainment program, will follow the golf tonight.

The Caddie-masters' Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is holding sway at the Hill Crest Country Club, near New Kensington; the United States Steel Corporation, with almost 300 entrants, is competing at the Edgewood Country Club; George A. Ormiston of Oakmont, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, is defending his championship and the Keystone Topics trophy in the 36-hole medal play, of the Keystone Athletic Club, at the Highland Country Club and the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association is meeting on the links of the Chartiers Heights Country Club.

SANDULAK TO ENTERTAIN

Tomorrow another round of the women's championship will be played at Allegheny. The Sandulak Company is entertaining all day at the Ambridge Country Club, and the event is anticipated as a splendid success.

The annual team championship of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, is slated to get under way throughout the country tomorrow, also, and the competition will continue in each of the 48 states until October 11, when the round must be completed. The fight is on the Forsyth-Blackstone trophy, put up by two local men.

On Wednesday the annual invitation tournament of the Pittsburgh Field Club will get under way with a splendid field in the competition. It will be a three-day affair, winding up on Friday. Friday afternoon also will mark a mixed foursome tournament at the Allegheny Country Club under the auspices of the women's association.

GENEVA

tackle and guard last year is back and will likely clinch one of the line jobs.

There are six outstanding players in the fight for the guard posts. Ralston, a 200-pound lad, is a leading contender for one job. Robb, somewhat light with his 165 pounds; Stauffer, a 183-pounder; Wahle, 192 stripped; Woods, at 195 pounds, and Harris, 180, a brother of Ollie, of backfield fame, are the others who are bidding strongly for varsity squad berths.

Temerario, New Brighton lad and replacement center and understudy to Myers last year, is making Ranson and Hineman, heavier men, step for the pivot job. He is a sturdy little fellow for all his lack of weight. He weighs but 155 pounds, but can pass very accurately and is a corking defensive bulwark.

Both Smith and Booth, regular ends last year, are still available, and Seaburn, McLean, Sole and Diskin are adjudged strong contenders for wing jobs.

LINE TO BE FAST

The line, when it is finally formed, will be heavy from tackle to tackle, with fast wings. The entire forward wall will be a hard-hitting combination, well adapted to the Geneva style of play. It will also be a powerful defensive force.

Flenniken has a whole raft of halfbacks from which to pick his varsity men. Left-overs from last year who will be exceedingly hard to oust are Knapik, the speedy Youngstown flash, who is being counted on to do the punting; Emerick, Ewing, Duncan and Pinkerton. Other promising looking halfbacks are Lewis, Richards, former New Castle star; Reitz, O'Neil, Deuvall, Heffley and Lindsay.

Joe Preece is being counted on to take Flenniken's job at fullback. Preece is a fine line smasher. He can pass, run the ends and blocks well. His defensive work leaves little to be desired. Pinkerton, who plays most any backfield position and also fills in at end, may get the call at quarter.

Injuries have already beset the Covenanters. Ewing, regarded as an extremely promising halfback, wrenched a knee in the first scrimmage and will hardly be available for duty for two weeks. Mentz, Haude and Pinkerton were out of practice part of last week and may miss some of the drills during the coming seven days.

SCHEDULE LONG

The Geneva schedule, while not an overly strenuous one, is not one that insures an unbroken string of victories. Ten games are on the program. Six of the 10 are with tri-state Conference foes, the Covenanters playing all of the other league teams this year, for the first time the Conference was organized.

The schedule opens with Adrian (Michigan) College at Beaver Falls. Carl Snavley and Hank Hangartner will bring their Bucknell Bisons to Beaver Falls the following Saturday to give the boys their first tough game. The teams tied 6-6 in '27.

Following the Bucknell game, the Genevians will meet Waynesburg and Theil on foreign fields. Then the Dukes will be played in the annual fracas at Reeves Stadium here. Grove City will furnish the opposition the next week, and on Monday, November 12, Allegheny will meet Geneva in the Armistic Day feature.

The tough game of the late schedule with Temple University in Philadelphia will come on the following Saturday. Westminster will play host to Flenniken and his charges November 24; the season will close with John Carroll in Cleveland November 29.

Babe Cullen, who was to have captained Geneva, is assisting Flenniken as line coach. Cullen was declared ineligible because of his having played a year at McKendrie College in Illinois, besides being on the Geneva squad for two years. The backfield coach is Merle Schachern, last year's quarterback. They are able assistants.

SCHANG OUT FOR SEASON

DETROIT, Sept. 10—Wally Schang, St. Louis American League catcher, will be out of the game the remainder of the season physicians announced after an X-Ray examination of his ankle. The ankle was fractured when Schang slid into the home plate in the ninth inning of Sunday's game.

Gridders Scoff at League

By TOM BIRKS.

THERE is much speculation regarding the proposed formation of a local independent conference in the district, and in connection with the body the formation of a group of officials from the Pittsburgh Umpires Association to form an organization to work football games on local sandlots. It seems some of the boys connected with the game in the district are getting quite a kick out of the matter in being approached.

In connection with the Referees' and Umpires' Association, the boys have already agreed among themselves that they will collect a flat guarantee of $15 for refereeing or umpiring the games. And they have not as yet said what the head linesmen are going to get.

Thirty dollars is a lot of money in local sandlot independent games, and outside of about four clubs, none of the others are going to be able to take that much money in. And the four that are able to pay it are home teams who will not join any conference because they will do their own booking, and pay the visiting teams to suit themselves. The only teams that will want to join a conference are clubs that have no home grounds, or expect to be beaten early in the season, and it should get them games.

But the $15 fee is providing a kick, when only about two members of the umpires' body ever had any experience on the gridiron. It seems the umpires, after getting all the money that was made on the local sandlots, do not feel like watching anybody else get some on the gridiron, and want to get that also. It might be a good thing for the umpires to lay away the mask and protector for the winter, and let the fans try to forget some of the stuff that has been watched, with teams $16 at the gate, and two umpires taking it all.

season is over," Joe is quoted. "It's a young man's game and I guess it is about time for me to step aside and make room for a younger player."

"Now, when I think of what future I may have in baseball I just can't get enthused. I don't care and since I feel that way about it I think it would be best to retire.

"SINCE I was mustered out of the army there hasn't been a single day when I would say I felt in real good health. The war made a different man out of me. There was a time when I didn't mind hot weather. I put in two seasons in the Southern Association and the heat never affected me. But now hot weather gets me down. In the last few seasons I've played ball on hot days when I should have been in bed. But what was the use of squawking? It wouldn't get you any place. Last season, although my health wasn't good, I thought I could keep on playing for a few more years and never thought of quitting. This year I have viewed things differently and when the season ends I'll be ready to write finis to my career."

LEO MACKEY, widely known throughout the Tri-State territory, first as player in basketball and baseball, and during the last three years as a basketball and football arbiter, is one of the new members of the Central Board of Football Officials.

Leo Mackey

Leo will work as a Central Board man for the first time during the coming gridiron season, and his record as an independent official for three years practically assures his success.

PITTSBURGH is second to no other city of its size in representation on the Central Board. Of a total of 1,795 officials working under that body, 70 are located in this city, and that's not counting a large number residing in nearby towns.

Mackey, for some time a catcher for the Nashville (Tenn.) club of the Southern Association, was recently made manager of the Charlotte (N. C.) team of the South Atlantic Association to succeed Heinie Groh. He will return home next Friday or Saturday.

ONE of the greatest pitchers in modern baseball passed in the death of Urban Shocker. This year he was not himself. He did not join the Yankees until the season was well advanced, and even then he pitched only two innings, his lone appearance being made as a relief hurler against Washington on May 30. He was released on July 5. But in earlier years, Shocker was one of the star spitballers of the big leagues. He established a record of never having lost more games than he won in a season from the time he became a Yankee in 1916 until the close of his career. Only once did his defeats equal his victories, that being in 1925, when he won 12 and lost 12. In four straight years, from 1920 to 1923, inclusive, while he was with the Browns, he won 20 games or more, his highest mark being set in 1921, when he turned in 27 victories. During his major league career of 17 years he won 189 games against 115 lost, a percentage of .622.

FRAZEE, FORMER RED SOX OWNER, IS ILL ABROAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(A.P.)—Harry H. Frazee, theatrical producer and former owner of the Boston Red Sox, is dangerously ill in Paris and his son and personal physicians now are bound for France at his summons, has been learned.

Frazee telephoned his son Harry, Jr., from Paris last night that French physicians had said he could not recover. The younger Frazee and the doctor immediately took passage on the Ile de France.

PIRATES

Sparky hit a high one over the bag. The Redbird third-sacker tried for a smart play. He figured he could not throw out Adams, but saw a fine chance to nail Grantham at the plate. His idea was good, but his aim was poor, for his throw socked George in the back and the first sacker was safe. As the ball bounded to the stands, Brickell moved to third and Adams to second with the tying run.

Art Reinhart rushed to the mound to pitch to Sprout Waner, but Donie Bush yanked Sprout and inserted Pete Scott. The boy who punishes the southpaws, whacked a hot double into the left field crowd, scoring the two much-needed tallies.

Punch 'em Paul came up and connected for his fourth hit of the afternoon to win the old ball game, Scott crossing the plate. Reinhart departed for the showers in favor of Sylvester Johnson, who finished.

Joe Dawson hustled to the mound in the eighth and by working two scoreless rounds for the cause of the Pirates, made the victory safe.

M'GIRR BOOKS BOUTS

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has arranged two of the preliminaries for his opening show of the indoor season in the Palisades roller rink, Thursday night. Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Jack Ungle, of Etna, will appear in the semi-final and Mike Hogan and Dave McConnell in the second bout. Johnny Mellow, of Detroit and California Joe Gans are the main-bouters.

Plan Memorial Trophy to Graham

Golfers throughout the district today are mourning the loss of one of this city's most popular linksmen, Police Lieut. Samuel Graham, who, only recently, as a member of the Pittsburgh public links team, won the medal honors in the National amateur public links championship at Philadelphia. Graham died suddenly Saturday night.

As a fitting tribute to his memory, a committee, headed by John Jay Burke, executive committeeman of the public links section, U. S. G. A., has started the ball a-rolling to secure funds for a perpetual memorial trophy in his name for future competition.

His sudden death has quite shocked his many, many friends in golf as well as police circles.

Donations are being received by Al McBride, pro at Schenley.

STOGIES LOSE TO BARONS

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 10.—Fairmont took the lead in the Middle Atlantic League playoff by beating Wheeling on its own lot here yesterday. It was the second straight victory for the Barons. Maxton worked for the Barons against Goldstein and had the edge. Goldstein got into trouble several times during the game and only sharp fielding saved him.

The winning run in the tenth inning came after one was out. Mueller was hit in the stomach by a pitched ball. Holland singled to right. Mueller pulled up at second. Solters hit to Zupansic, who was unable to get the runner at third and threw to first, but his heave went into the bleachers and Mueller scored.

ANTILL COPS STATE TITLE

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—Pennsylvania has a new state horseshoe pitching champion. He is Frank Antill, veteran Washington (Pa.) pitcher, who triumphed in Saturday's state tournament held here. In the final, he won from T. C. Reed, of McKeesport, the scores were 50-43 and 55-13.

Mervin George, Grove City boy, who was last year's champion, was eliminated in the first round by Fazenbacher, of Everson, Fayette county, 50-25 and 50-28.

MAKE TWO TRIPLE PLAYS

RAIFORD, Fla., Sept. 10.—Two triple plays in the sixth inning featured a game here yesterday between the State's Prison Farm and A. & P. teams. A. & P. had men on first and second when a batter lined to the second baseman. Throws to second and first completed the play. The A. & P. third baseman caught a liner, stepped on third and threw to second.

Shocker, Former Yank Ace, Dies

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Urban Shocker, veteran former American League pitcher, died yesterday at a hospital from pneumonia and heart disease, following an illness of several weeks.

Urban Shocker.

Shocker, who came to Denver following his release as a free agent by the New York Yankees, pitched one game, August 6, in a Denver semi-professional tournament, contracted pneumonia shortly afterward. He was removed to St. Luke's Hospital on August 13. His condition varied from time to time, but last Friday physicians believed he was on the road to recovery. He suffered a relapse late Saturday and died at 7:10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Shocker, for years the ace of the St. Louis American League Club staff and later one of the stars of Miller Huggins' mound corps, was expected to be a standout attraction in the Denver tournament, but he was beaten by a Cheyenne, Wyo., entry in his first start, being knocked out of the box. Physicians said he was in a weakened condition when he came here. When pneumonia developed it was too late to remove him from the high altitude and he was rushed from his hotel to the hospital.

Bass-Blitman Go Slated Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The question as to who is the best 126-pound fighter in Philadelphia will be decided tonight when Benny Bass and Harry Blitman meet in a 10-round bout, which has been billed as the unofficial featherweight championship of the world. The winner of the contest unquestionably will stand out as the foremost challenger for Tony Canzoneri's crown.

Bass has had his chance and muffed it. A broken collar bone had as much to do with Benny's defeat as Canzoneri's punches. Blitman had his chance also and made the most of it. Harry is not champion because of the fact that Sammy Goldman, manager of the champion, made sure that Blitman came in well over the class weight.

Bass has watched the progress of Blitman through envious eyes. Benny failed the Philadelphian and they turned to Blitman. This has not set well with Benny.

Havey J. Boyle, member of the State Athletic Commission and of the staff of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be at the ringside in his official capacity at the Benny Bass—Harry Blitman bout at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, tonight, and will wire a story of the battle which will appear in all editions tomorrow.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME

Tom Gettings, Sheraden pitcher, goes into the sandlot hall of fame as being one of the few pitchers to put over a no-hit no-run victory for yesterday he turned the trick while hurling for W. O. W. against the Stowe Civics at Harlan Field, the Woodmen winning a 6-0 victory.

ROBINS GET FOUR NEW HURLERS; RED SOX ONE

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—The Brooklyn Robins announce that Messrs. Norcum, Rauch, Clyde Dudley and Cy Moore, pitchers by trade, will find work at Ebbets Field next season. All are from Georgia, the first two from Atlanta and the third from Macon. J. H. Frederick, slugging outfielder of the Memphis club, also has been corraled.

Market Regarded Good For Speculators, Though Not Pleasing Investors.

By B. C. FORBES

IT HAS been proving a good market for speculators and may even continue so for a time, notwithstanding the unexplained heights reached by the favorite issues of powerful Bulls.

But it cannot be regarded as an attractive market from the investment viewpoint.

AFTER several weeks' absence it takes time to catch up with just what has been happening. This appears to be the situation:

THE public kept out of the market after having their fingers badly burned in the June break. The wealthy manipulators for the rise never for a moment forsook their position. They kept their powder dry, patiently awaiting signs that public interest could be stirred up afresh.

AROUND the opening of September it was considered opportune to make bullish demonstrations, previous sorties having yielded encouraging results. Despite the very adverse money market, it was found possible not only to mark up prices but to draw many outsiders into the market.

By Friday the new boomlet—it may develop into a boom before its collapse—was furiously under way. Again brokers' offices were crowded; again the ticker was falling far behind; again spectacular fluctuations were frequent; again the skilful Bulls had the bears excitedly on the run.

THESE tables show how representative stocks stood at Saturday's close, as compared with a month ago:

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 53 to 72 points under heavy general selling promoted by the bearish view of Saturday's government crop report, and the weakness of Liverpool cables.

There was considerable covering by recent sellers to take profits and some scale down buying for trade or commission house account, but offerings continued heavy after the call, the market showing net losses of 78 to 99 points by the end of the first hour.

October sold off to 18.32c and March to 18.06, the lowest price so far this season on the late deliveries.

Private cables reported hedging and heavy general selling in Liverpool on the government crop figures and that Manchester was disturbed by the decline in cotton with business in cotton goods restricted.

Trade interests were reported active buyers on the early decline, and the market became somewhat steadier in the forenoon. Offerings tapered off after the first rush subsided, and there seemed to be some commission house buying as well as covering on rallies of 14 or 15 points from the lowest. At midday December was selling around 18.27 and March 18.20, or about 67 to 82 points net lower.

LONE STAR GAS ACTIVE AT HIGHER PRICES HERE

An advance in Lone Star Gas was a feature in the trading in the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The stock opened at 54⅛ and was bid up rapidly to 55. A simultaneous upward move of Columbia Gas on the New York board was believed to have furnished a stimulating influence, as the companies have certain interlocking interests.

Other local stocks were steady to firm. Carnegie Metals was in good demand and sold higher. Pittsburgh Plate Glass opened at one point higher at 262. Suburban Electric Development and United Engineering and Foundry opened fractionally lower.

Another wave of buying took hold of Carnegie Metals during the later trading. The stock rose to 21⅞ with brokers bidding vigorously. One block of 1,000 shares came out at 21. Armstrong Cork sold unchanged at 59½. Westinghouse Air Brake was firm, but declined a fraction from the opening. Salt Creek Consolidated sold at 6¾. The volume of trading increased during the latter part of the session.

Coupon debentures of $1,000 denomination, registerable as to principal only. Redeemable as a whole, or in part by lot, on the fifteenth day of any month on 30 days' notice, (1) to and including August 15, 1930 at 104 and interest, with successive reductions in the redemption price of ¼ of 1% during each two-year period thereafter to and including August 15, 1960, and thereafter until maturity at 100 and interest, and (2) under certain conditions upon sale of certain assets, at 100 and interest. Central Union Trust Company of New York, Trustee.

The indenture is to contain provision for refund of Pennsylvania personal property tax not exceeding four mills per annum.

The company has agreed to make application in due course to list the Series B debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. Edwin Gruhl, President of North American Edison Company, from his letter dated September 7, 1928, copies of which may be obtained upon request and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS

North American Edison Company, organized under the laws of Delaware in March, 1922, as a subsidiary of The North American Company, controls through stock ownership important public utility operating companies, including The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, Union Electric Light and Power Company (St. Louis), Mississippi River Power Company, The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company, Wisconsin Electric Power Company, Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company and Wisconsin Michigan Power Company. The earnings of the operating subsidiairies of the company are derived principally from electric light and power business, more than 78% of gross earnings and more than 87% of net income from operation during the twelve months ended June 30, 1928 having come from that source.

Consolidated gross earnings of subsidiaries of North American Edison Company, during the period of twelve months ended June 30, 1928, represented more than 55% of the consolidated gross earnings of all subsidiaries of The North American Company during that period.

CAPITALIZATION

Upon completion of this financing, the capitalization of the company (subject to further conversions of Series A debentures into preferred stock after September 5, 1928) will be as follows:

	Authorized	Outstanding
5% Debentures, Series A, due March 1, 1957	*	$18,341,000
5½% Debentures, Series B (this issue)	*	20,000,000
Preferred Stock (without par value), cumulative dividends $6 per share per annum	500,000 shares	266,590 shares
Common Stock (without par value)	500,000 shares	385,000 shares

*Additional debentures of any series may be issued subject to indenture restrictions.
183,410 shares reserved against conversion of Series A debentures.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

Proceeds of the sale of this issue of Series B debentures will be used for the payment of unfunded debt of the company and for other corporate purposes.

EARNINGS

Consolidated earnings of the company and its subsidiaries for the three years ended December 31, 1927, and the twelve months ended June 30, 1928, before deducting interest charges of the company, were as follows:

	1925	1926	1927	12 months ended June 30, 1928
Gross earnings	$72,563,287	$81,365,671	$83,941,982	$86,205,078
Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes	43,628,873	46,318,534	46,422,188	47,291,544
Net income from operation	$28,934,414	$35,047,137	$37,519,794	$38,913,534
Interest charges and preferred dividends of subsidiaries, and minority interests	11,372,738	13,213,205	14,443,532	14,714,815
Balance before depreciation	$17,561,676	$21,833,932	$23,076,262	$24,198,719
Depreciation	7,396,579	8,372,945	8,770,941	8,859,469
Balance before deducting interest charges of North American Edison Company	$10,165,097	$13,460,987	$14,305,321	$15,339,250
Annual interest requirement on debentures to be outstanding, as shown above				$2,017,050

The above balance of $15,339,250 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1928 is more than 7½ times the annual interest requirement of $2,017,050 on the $38,341,000 principal amount of debentures of the company to be outstanding, as shown above, upon completion of this financing.

We offer these debentures for delivery if, when and as issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval of legal proceedings by counsel. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about September 20, 1928, in the form of temporary debentures, or interim receipts of Dillon Read & Co.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Allegheny Steel Hits Unusual Profit for First Half of Year. No Dividend Passed In 26 Years.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Allegheny Steel Company showed remarkably good earnings in the first half of this year.

Net profit after depreciation and taxes, was $2,063,344 which was equivalent to $3.16 a share on the common stock after deducting dividends for the six months on the 7 per cent preferred stock. The common is now on a $3 annual dividend basis.

PROFIT in the half year was nearly equal to dividend requirements on both the common and preferred stocks for an entire year.

If results in the latter half of the year are as good as in the first half net profit will be greater than in any of the five years for which income accounts are available.

In 1927 net profit was $1,711,198 or $4.95 a share. This was greater than in the three preceding years but it was slightly less than in 1923 which was exceptionally profitable.

APPLICATION for the listing of of the 35,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 300,000 shares of common stock without par value was recently approved by the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

The principal plant is at Brackenridge. The company makes open hearth and electric furnace steel. Bars, rods, sheets, pipe and automobile disc wheels are included in the finished products. Iron, steel and brass foundry work is also done.

A SUBSIDIARY, the Delaware Seamless Tube Company, has a pilger seamless tube mill at Auburn, Pa. Equipment is also in use for making cold drawn seamless tubes.

Although this subsidiary reported a loss of $83,454 in the period from August 1 to December 31, 1927, its business has since improved. A profit of $5,231 was shown in the first half of 1928.

Allegheny Steel Company and its predecessor organization, the Allegheny Steel and Iron Company, have an unbroken record of having paid dividends on the common stock in every year since 1902. The dividends and earnings have, however, varied widely with changing conditions in the industry.

PHYSICAL properties on June 30 had a net value of $10,349,415 after charging off reserves of $3,568,879 for depreciation. Against this the company has no funded debt. The amount of preferred stock outstanding is relatively small.

Current assets of $7,600,598 were six times current liabilities. A very liquid condition of current assets was shown on the balance sheet of June 30. Cash of $1,337,797 was greater than the total current liabilities of $1,256,785.

In addition to cash, United States government securities amount to $1,712,000 and other marketable securities amounted to $667,103.

PATENTS, patterns and good will were valued at only $1. Investments were carried at $260,019. Total assets amounted to $21,991,270.

The no-par common stock is carried on the balance sheet at $3,343,887. Surplus at the end of the first half of the year was $10,263,931. After deducting deferred charges a book value of $44.65 was indicated for the common stock.

WILD BIDDING UP OF STOCKS CONTINUES

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP.)—Excited public speculation in stocks continued in today's market, which witnessed the establishment of nearly two score high records on gains ranging from 1 to nearly 12 points. The rally was slow in getting started because of the necessity of absorbing further profit taking in some of the recent industrial favorites, but pools brought forward a number of new leaders and the advance was in full swing by early afternoon.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the break of $1.50 a bale in cotton prices in reflection of the government crop estimate last Saturday.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7½ per cent and appeared to be in fairly plentiful supply at that figure despite the calling of about $10,000,000 in bank loans. Time money was firmer, being quoted at 6⅝ to 6¾ as against a ruling rate of 6½ last week. Sterling hovered near the year's low and around the "gold import point," but no shipments of the precious metal had been announced by early afternoon.

Montgomery Ward was again the sensational feature, soaring nearly 12 points to a new high record at 252 as against a low of 117 earlier in the year. Purity Baking preferred jumped 10 points, and the common 7⅝. Commercial Solvents 7, Motor Products 7, International Nickel 6¾. Commercial Investment Trust 6, and Republic Steel 5, all to new high records.

Amusement shares continued to attract widespread interest. Warner Bros. issues extended their early gains for about 7½ points and each Fox Film and Shubert sold 6 points higher, all at new top prices for the year.

Brooklyn Edison ran up 11 points, Warren Bros. 10½, and American Bank Note, Rossia Insurance, Wright Aeronautical and General Electric sold 4 to nearly 6 points higher.

Trading was in such large volume that the ticker ran 15 to 25 minutes behind the market.

NEWS AND VIEWS

New Leaders Appear.

A new set of stocks was selected for leadership in the New York market today and many of the favorites of last week were allowed to drift. This caused many sections of the list to assume a spotty appearance. General Electric came into prominence with a nice gain and Westinghouse Electric also sold higher. Republic and Bethlehem had good gains among the steels. The oils and motors were sluggish. Anaconda was an active feature among the coppers and sold higher. The volume of trading was heavy.

Republic Operations.

Republic Iron and Steel Company is now operating its plants at about 85 per cent of capacity. It has maintained a comparatively high rate of operations over the quarter so far and this, with somewhat higher billing prices, indicates profits for the three months ending September 30 will be greater than in the June quarter when Republic earned $1.03 a share on its 596,000 common shares.

Recent absorption by Republic of Sheet and Tubes, Inc., following its acquisition earlier this year of Trumbull Steel, has resulted in reports that the interests who bought into Republic last year are planning to enlarge the company greatly, first by the purchase of Central Alloy Steel and later of other companies. While there are possibilities of further expansion by Republic along these lines nothing immediate is likely. Republic now is engaged in consolidating and harmonizing its present facilities.

Southern Dairies Deposits.

A prominent New York Stock Exchange house points out: "The Kraft-Phenix Cheese Company has recently acquired control of Southern Dairies, Inc., class A and B stock and in exchange there will be one share of Kraft for every two shares of Southern class A and B, one share of Kraft common for every six shares of Southern B. The offer will close at noon September 10 and will be subject to acceptance by 85 per cent of each class of Southern Dairies stock. Stock should be deposited with Manufacturers Trust Company, New York. The proposal will enable holders of Southern Dairies to receive dividends, which is very improbable if stock is not exchanged."

Coal Production Increases.

Total production of soft coal during the week ended September 1 is estimated by the Bureau of Mines at 9,483,000 tons, as against 9,276,000 tons produced during the preceding week. Anthracite production in the week ended September 1 is estimated at 1,807,000 tons, against 1,731,000 tons in the preceding week.

Indian Motorcycle.

The Indian Motorcycle Company for six months ended June 30, last, reports net profit as $106,643 after taxes and including $55,183 profit from sale of stock of Wire Wheel Corporation of America, equal after allowing for dividend requirements on the 7 per cent preferred stock to 80 cents a share on 100,000 no-par common shares.

Burroughs Adding Machine.

The Burroughs Adding Machine Company in its statement to stockholders for the six months ended June 30, 1928, shows a net profit of $3,846,303 after depreciation, taxes and all other charges, being at the rate of $4.80 a share on 800,000 shares of non-par value stock then outstanding. This compares with earnings of $3.89 a share on the same number of shares for the first half of 1927. By a 25 per cent stock dividend, distributed August 17, 1928, the company increased its outstanding capital to 1,000,000 shares, upon which the earnings for the first half of 1928 show an annual rate of $7.69 a share.

Dollar Wheat Not Expected.

"Conservative observers do not believe that wheat will sell much cheaper for the present, but that it may reach a low point next spring, when the necessity of increased consumption will be more generally realized," says the Journal of Commerce. "More radical operators have modified their ideas to the extent that they no longer expect wheat prices to drop to $1 a bushel or lower, as they predicted a short time ago."

Straus Bond Offering.

S. W. Straus & Co. are offering at par and accrued interest an issue of $1,000,000 guaranteed collateral trust sinking fund 6½ per cent gold bonds, dated July 15, 1928, and due July 15, 1942, of the United States Bond and Mortgage Corporation of New York. The bonds are secured by 300 mortgages, largely on private homes, deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York as trustee.

Federal Reserve and Market.

Of much significance in Wall street is the general impression in banking circles that the Federal Reserve executives who, during most of this year, have been directing their efforts toward checking the diversion into stock market channels, are now little concerned with the extent of the borrowing by member banks throughout the country, and are occupied chiefly with assuring satisfactory credit conditions for the nation's business throughout the balance of the year.

Auto Output at New Peak.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce estimates automobile production in August at 485,000 cars, a new high record, and compares with 415,670 cars in July, and 321,352 in August, 1927.

TITLE INSURANCE
Most homes rest on a foundation of unnumbered sacrifices. Savings and self-denials without number have alone made possible their acquisition. Surely when such a possession is finally won it should be safeguarded at every turn. Most important of all is a perfect title. Assure and Insure yourself by securing "Potter Title Insurance," before you finally settle your deal.

McCOOK & JARRETT,
587 Union Trust Building,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

To the Stockholders of Reymer & Brothers Inc.:

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to a resolution duly adopted by the Board of Directors of this Company, at a meeting held on the 9th day of July, A. D. 1928, at which meeting a majority of the members of the said Board were present and voted in the affirmative, a special meeting of the stockholders of the Company has been called to convene at the principal office of the Company,

Forbes and Pride Sts. Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 3rd day of October, 1928, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time for the purpose of voting for or against a proposed conversion and change of the capital stock of this Company from 15,000 shares, having a nominal or par value of $100.00 each, of the aggregate amount of $1,500,000, of which 10,000 shares are issued and outstanding, into 80,000 shares of said capital stock without nominal or par value, and if said change and conversion be approved, to issue and allot said shares of stock to the holders of the present stock of the Company pro rata according to their holdings or interest in respect of the present shares so held by them, on the basis of eight (8) shares of the new stock for each share of the present stock outstanding.

And if the stockholders shall consent to said change and conversion for the further purpose of voting for or against an increase of the capital stock of said Company from 80,000 shares, having no nominal or par value, to 200,000 shares having no nominal or par value, by adding to the capital stocq of the Company 120,000 shares of common stock, without nominal or par value.

And if said change conversion and increase of capital stock be favorably acted upon, the stockholders will take action at said meeting upon the following matters:

(a) Authorizing the setting aside and issuance, from time to time, of an amount not exceeding 10,000 shares of said additional shares of common stock, without nominal or par value to, or for the sale to such employes of this Company, in such number of shares with respect to each, at such prices, and otherwise upon such terms and conditions as may be determined upon and adopted by the Board of Directors.

(b) Fixing the consideration for which the remainder of such additional shares of common stock, without nominal or par value, to-wit, 110,000 shares, or any part thereof, may be issued or disposed of or authorizing the Board of Directors to fix the same.

(c) Fixing a stated capital applicable to all shares of the company's capital stock, including the stock without nominal or par value issued in exchange for the present capital stock having no nominal or par value and the additional shares of stock having no nominal or par value, as authorized by the proposed increase of capital or authorizing the Board of Directors to fix the same from time to time when and as such additional shares may be issued.

(d) Upon the annulment of the present by-laws of the Company in their entirety, and the adoption of new by-laws in place thereof for the government and management of the property, affairs and business of the company.

(e) Upon all other matters in any way relating to or connected with the matters hereinbefore mentioned, that may be brought before the meeting.

Only those whose names appear as stockholders on the books of the company at the close of business on the 2nd day of August, A. D. 1928, shall have the right to vote at said meetings.

Commerce Office Here Sign of Our Importance

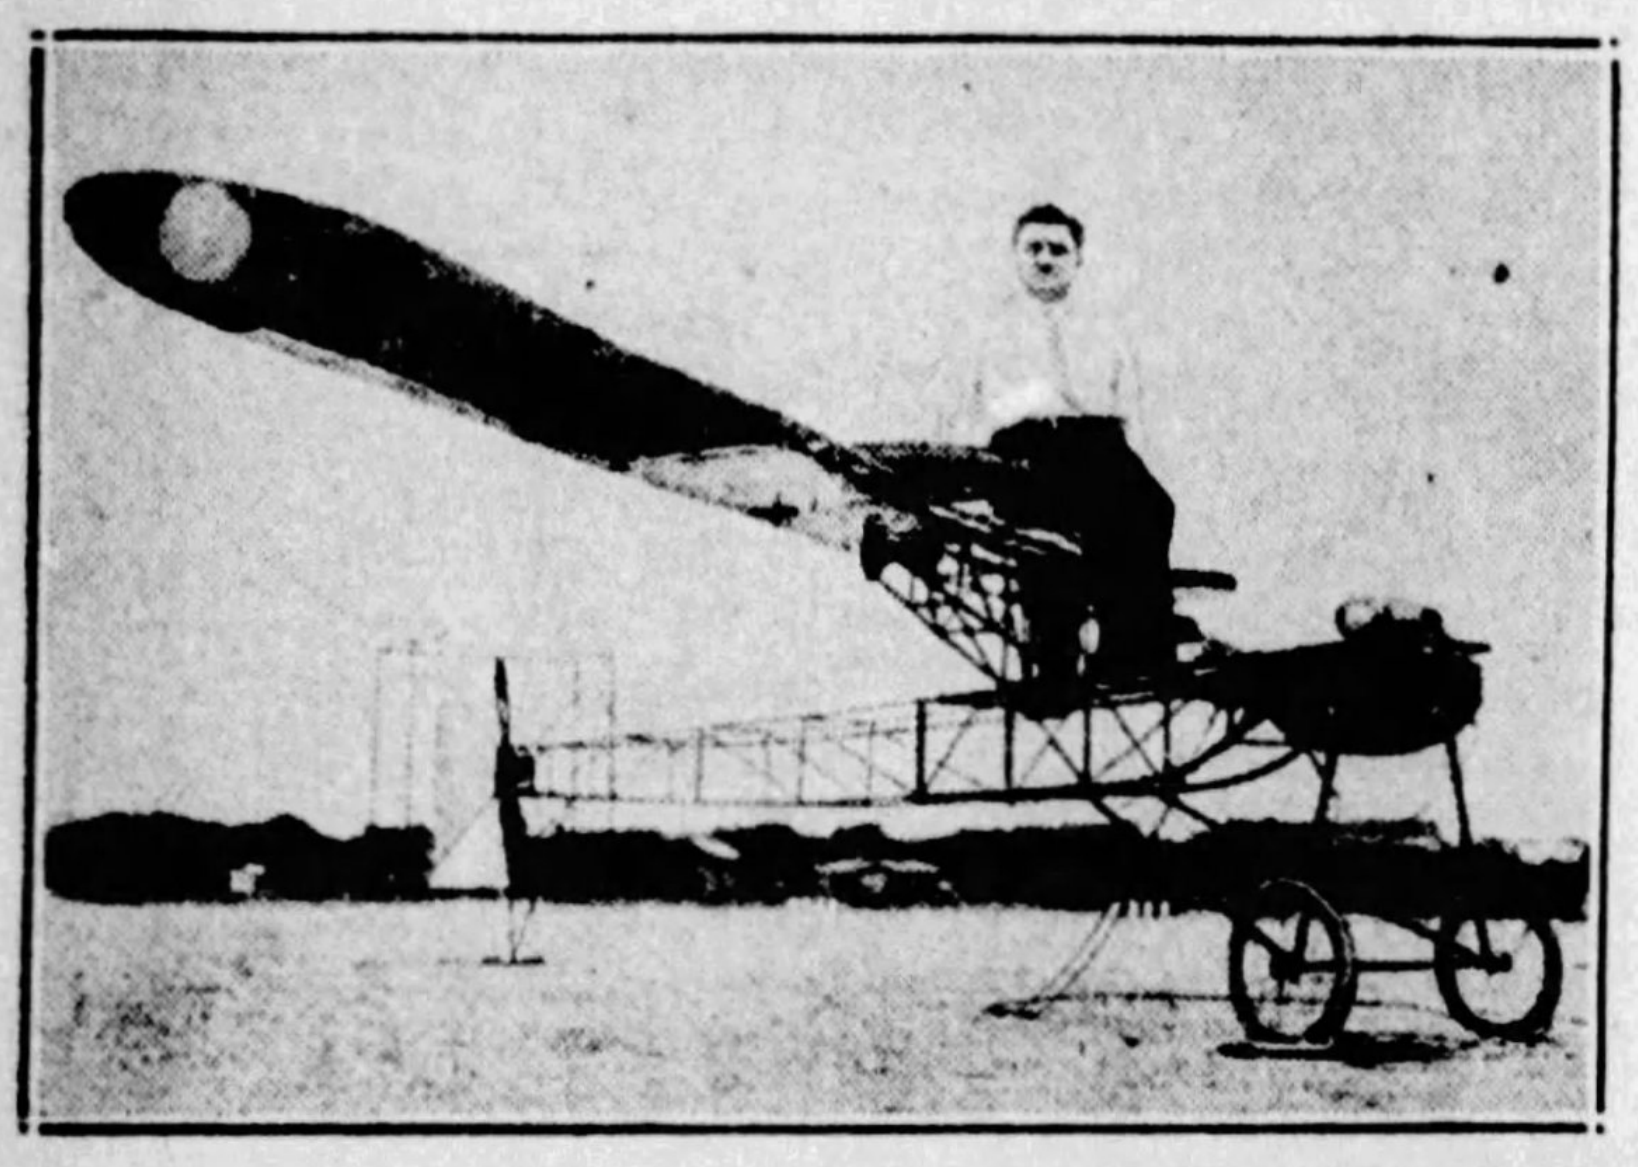
Establishment of a branch office of the bureau of foreign omestic commerce, United States Department of Com- , in the Chamber of Commerce Building, gives to Pittsburgh trade and industry a source of immediate information and counsel on subjects pertaining to trade both in this country and abroad. In charge of Wilson K. Ray, native of Pittsburgh, with sales experience in iron and steel products and railway supplies as well as several years' service in the Commerce Department both abroad and at home, the new "service station" starts under ideal auspices.

The new outpost of the service arm of the Commerce Department makes available to shippers and manufacturers knowledge of transportation lanes, tariffs of foreign countries, manner of packing and similar data, and it should prove of great benefit to business of the district to be served. This includes Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia. In the official announcement of the opening of the office it was stated that exports of the three states last year reached a total of more than $500,000,000, much of which originated in the Tri-State territory.

Hence, in effect, the new branch is official recognition of the importance of this district as a great commercial center.

Lightweight Flying

A 210-Pound Airplane.



HERR ZASCHA AND HIS LIGHTWEIGHT PLANE.

his picture of an inexpensive lightweight flying machine which really FLIES, and costs not much more than a motorcycle to operate, will interest boys and young men.

The day is not far off when machines like this, and lighter than this, will be flying through the air, taking their owners to the seashore or mountains, and carrying passengers at less cost than riding by train from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean in a few hours.

The power plant in this plane is a lightweight motorcycle engine. It enables the lightly built machine to turn at sharp angles in the air, and to rise almost perpendicularly from the ground.

Some day planes like this, perfected and safe in the hands of sensible men, will be built by the tens of thousands.

General Motors, Henry Ford, Walter Chrysler and others, please take notice.

If Tunney Were "Solid"

How Small Would He Be?

How small is the atom, how unreal is substance? Let the learned Prof. Eddington answer.

Label every atom in a cupful of liquid, assuming that to be possible. Throw it into the sea and let is be spread throughout the oceans of the world. Then take up a cupful of sea water anywhere, in any ocean. You would find several of the labeled atoms in it.

A man smoking a pipe puffs out in a short time so many atoms of smoke that if they could be spread through the earth's atmosphere, no man on earth could draw a breath without inhaling 50 of those atoms.

Electrons and protons that make up the atoms, molecules and all matter, are as far apart from each other in proportion as the earth from the sun.

If all the "hollow spaces" separating the atoms were removed from the body of Gene Tunney so that all the nuclei and electrons in his body actually touched, he would be so small you would need a magniflying glass to see him.

Psychic Deafness

A New Kind.

Men and women, afflicted with deafness, have been able to hear after flying at a great height.

"Stunt flying" is supposed to make the cure more efficacious.

Scientists investigating the alleged cures are inclined to doubt their genuineness. There is, however, a type of deafness, exceedingly rare, called "psychic deafness," in which the subconscious mind refuses to hear.

A young girl, distressed by hearing her father and mother constantly quarreling, is said to have developed such deafness.

Flight at a great height, with an occasional downward swoop, may have a good effect. But surgeons ought to be able to do more for ordinary deafness than any stunt flight could do.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Tree Growth and Life

MAN and other animals attain a certain normal size, characteristic of each species, and then bodily growth ceases. We live several times longer than we grow. We are about as tall and large as we shall ever be—barring avoirdupois—somewhere around the age of twenty. But consider the trees, how different it is with them. If the early growth ring theory is correct, such trees as the sequoias must grow as long as they continue to live, and their lives must end with their growth.

Unless this is so, the customary estimates of the lifetime of trees, based on their growth rings, must often be egregiously in error. By the ring-counting method, some of the California giants appear to have attained an age of four or five thousand years. But how long may a great tree stand after its death? I have an impression that some trees whose history has been contemporaneously preserved because of some connection with man have been known to stand, strong, upright skeletons, defying tempest and insect ravage during periods of time almost comparable with their preceding life span. The celebrated "chene Voltaire" (Voltaire's oak) in the Vosges, near Munster, is an example of long post mortem existence. If the mighty sequoias have this resisting power after the close of life and the end of growth, the age of some of them may exceed by a thousand or more years the time indicated by the number of growth rings.

A new theory of tree growth, as far as the California sequoias are concerned, has lately been advanced by Judge Walter Fry, Commissioner for Sequoia Park, with the concurrence of Superintendent White. According to this theory, the accepted idea that the growing season of these trees falls in with wet years is exactly wrong; the real season of growth coinciding, instead, with dry years. Judge Fry says, as reported by Science Service:

"The growing season of the sequoias, occurring at an elevation varying from 5,000 to 8,000 feet, is necessarily short. The big trees do not begin too bud until the snow has disappeared and the sun begins to warm the ground. In years when the snow remains late on the ground the growth of the trees is retarded, while in winters of light snowfall the ground is free of snow early and the trees have a longer growing season and the rings therefore have a greater growth in the dry season."

It is apparent that this applies only in regions like the Sierras, where most of the moisture is supplied by snow. The effect must be different at ordinary elevations, where the rainfall and not melted snow waters the ground and roots. There, very dry years must have a restraining, or even disastrous effect on tree growth.

Judge Fry's largest count of growth rings was in the trunk of the giant sequoia fallen in Converse Basin. He found 3,226 "annual rings," indicating according to the usual interpretation a numerically corresponding age. On this basis he estimates that this tree had its fastest growth in the years between 400 and 250 B. C. and its slowest growth in the years between 650 and 800 A. D. But if some hundreds of years have elapsed since the last growth ring was formed, evidently these estimated dates may be proportionally too recent.

One striking fact developed by Judge Fry's studies of the sequoias is that the years 1923 and 1924 appear to have been "the dryest years known to man." This period of dryness is not yet ended, if we may judge by the experiences of the year 1928, and at the time of this writing many trees in France would appear to be forming no rings at all, while their crisp and browned leaves and dried and brittle twigs and small branches continually falling dismay the owners of parks and forests.

What Do You Give Others?

DO your associates get anything of value from you?

Do you give them something to think about?

It is fine to be an easy, happy guest; but, aside from being grateful and appreciative, it is also important that you leave behind you some enlightening thought or bit of useful information.

Just being congenial is not meeting the requirements you should set for yourself.

Shallow persons can be pleasant company.

So, if you have cultivated the society of persons who give you nothing but small talk, you have missed a lot.

You have wasted many hours that might have been spent more profitably with a good book or in storing up pure air at the shore.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that as a guest you must spend all your time with your host or hostess.

Members of the family should have opportunity to relax and time to plan details; so absent yourself for awhile each day.

Attention to this will add to your popularity as a guest.

Failure to do so will probably result in some other person being chosen in your place the next time.

Slumber Song

COME, little Sleepy-Head, lie on on my breast;
Hear, in my song, of the Garden of Rest,
High, Dreamland walls close the Garden by day,
No child may enter till wearied by play.

See, there are flowers your small hands to fill,
Buttercup, daisy and glad daffodil;
There runs a brook where your white feet may wade,
Sparkling in sunlight and darkling in shade.

Echoes of laughter come, tinkling and shrill
Over the crest of the Good Children's hill.
Come, little Sleepy-Head, lie on my breast,
Enter the gates of the Garden of Rest!

Great Passages from the Bible

Solomon Asks For Wisdom

(II. Chronicles, 1; 6-17)

AND Solomon went up thither to the brasen altar before the Lord, which was at the tabernacle of the congregation, and offered a thousand burnt offerings upon it.

In that night did God appear unto Solomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

And Solomon said unto God, Thou hast shewed great mercy unto David my father, and hast made me to reign in his stead.

Now, O Lord God, let thy promise unto David my father be established: for thou hast made me king over a people like the dust of the earth in multitude.

Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people, that is so great?

And God said to Solomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life; but hast asked wisdom and knowledge for thyself, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee; and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, such as none of the kings have had that have been before thee, neither shall there any after thee have the like.

Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place that was at Gibeon to Jerusalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Israel.

And Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, which he placed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

And the king made silver and gold at Jerusalem as plenteous as stones, and cedar trees made he as the sycomore trees that are in the vale for abundance.

And Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

And they fetched up, and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so brought they out horses for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, by their means.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IF you get too hot you can eat imaginary ice cream, I reckon, even if your stomach won't stand for the real thing. Anyhow, a lot is done with imagination.

A fellow was showing off to a neighbor's wife, in Hollywood, and he thought he had to kinda live up to his neighborhood, because he was a newcomer.

"Well," he says, "I'm mighty tired from overwork, so I don't hurry about much. I got a sore thumb lately from ringing for my valet before I get up, and my mouth is tired from blowing my whistle for my chauffeur."

"Oh," says the neighbor's wife, "have you got a valet and a chauffeur?"

"Well," he says, seeing she was surprised and maybe didn't have any herself, "I ain't exactly got a valet and a chauffeur, but I sure have got a bell and a whistle."

Lucky For Her

LITTLE GERTIE was visiting her three maiden aunts, the sisters of her mother. Each held distinct and original views as to how children should be brought up. Aunt Maria thought little girls should be seen and not heard; Aunt Eliza thought they should be neither heard nor seen; and Aunt Jane was certain that little girls should not be at all. These views they expressed freely to Gertie one evening and the conversation, being one-sided, began to flag. Gertie sat gazing into space.

"Of what are you thinking?" asked Aunt Maria, sharply.

"I was just thinking what a lucky thing it was father married the sister he did," said the little girl.

Gertie was sent home next morning.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—The talking movie is extremely important to this self-conscious community. Its success or failure touches the lives of every inhabitant. Directly it affects the well being of its players and producers. Indirectly tradesmen dependent upon them.

As this is yanked from the typewriter the talkie is a howling—appropriate word—success in Hollywood. Lines coil around the block to see and hear the talkies and only a handful pass through the portals of silent movie houses. One of the biggest movie palaces recently closed on account of poor business.

It installed equipment for talkies and is doing the best business in history. Those who know say the regular movie production will drop 75 per cent and be distributed chiefly to non-English speaking countries.

In the meantime Hollywood teeters between hope and despair. To some of the illustrious it means further affluence and to others it means bowing out of the picture. Unknowns will be catapulted to sudden fame just as they were in pioneering days.

But a doll face and a curl will not be prime requisites. The girl of rare beauty whose film tests are perfect, has no chance whatever unless she possesses a "screen voice." This also applies to the collar ad. boys with patent leather hair and cute mustaches.

Hollywood Boulevard is already dotted with voice culture schools. Baby types whose emotional conversation is encompassed in "Ain't that perfectly dandy?" are going in for intensive cultural training Dumbness no longer counts.

While Hollywood waits the industrial and artistic revolution, production has touched zero and countless are pounding the pavements out of work. The greatest activity is among producers of talkies, who are making gigantic preparations for full speed ahead. Another year will decide.

* * *

The world has hooted movie titles and the insufferable inanity they often express. Yet the most brilliant writers had trials and their efforts were received coldly by the public. Out of the thousands who have been brought to Hollywood for title writing there are only 10 who have won lasting success. There is a club called the Titular Bishops, headed by Julian Johnson, whose membership consists exclusively of those permanently established in this field—and the number is 10. The lowest salary is $50,000 a year, the highest $150,000.

* * *

There is an ace title writer whose success has created an odd flareback. He has been called in so often to render pulmotor treatment to anaemic films, exhibitors have become wary of products bearing the stamp of his handiwork. They are called "title pictures," meaning their sale value is in the titles.

* * *

Scenario writers, too, are represented by a handful. The most successful find their efforts welcomed by sneers from critics. There was, for instance, "Ramona," which received a double-barrelled barrage of critical scorn. And is one of the biggest box office attractions of the year.

* * *

I am told the most perfect voice yet found for the talkies is that of Franklin D. Roosevelt, but he cannot be induced to become a movie actor. He has appeared, however, in the talkies making a presidential nominating address.

* * *

Many distinguished New York artists are slipping in and out of Hollywood incognito for first-hand information and voice tests. The biggest kick in the pants in the success of the talkies will be for orchestra musicians in movie houses. It practically eliminates them.

The Parent and the School Child

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

When the little boy or girl starts off to school for the first time the mother is disposed to sit down and have a good cry.

It marks an epoch. Her baby is gone. The rift has commenced to widen which is to separate her from her child. In the course of events the child often adopts a life and takes up with interests and companions with which the mother has nothing to do. One way to avoid this is for the mother, in spirit at least, to follow the child.

Let her know what books the child is studying. Let her get acquainted with the teacher, invite the teacher to her house and demonstrate that they are working together.

Let her know the child's companions and playmates. Find out about the games she plays. Encourage the child to consult her in all the things that are done.

You cannot expect the child to be on confidential terms with you unless you are on confidential terms with it. And you, being the older and the wiser, must take the initiative. The child may respond to your advances or may not, but you need not expect the child to take the first step.

And how about auxiliary reading? One of the most important elements in a child's education is to cultivate a taste for good books. Don't confine yourself to children's books entirely. It is well not to stoop down too much to the child.

You may think that you are shooting over the child's head, but the little one often grasps things that you do not suspect. You learn a great deal of French or German from just hearing it continually spoken. You get a word here and there, and your vocabulary is continually enlarging, even when you do not grasp everything that is said. And you somehow get the feel of the language, the "sprachgefuehl," as the Germans call it.

So the little one often absorbs the atmosphere of good literature when much of it is incomprehensible.

There are certain classics or time-worn books that are the delight of almost every child.

What child is there that does not love the adventures of "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn?" Then there are "Kidnaped" and "Treasure Island," those charming stories of Robert Louis Stevenson. "Alice in Wonderland" is of a whimsicality that is almost always appreciated by the young. Many of the poems of James Whitcomb Riley can be understood by the child, and some of the tales of Sir Walter Scott can hold his interest.

It is an art to select books that the child will always be glad to have known, that are not too far beyond his years and have a certain educative value.

The works of Charles Dickens are peculiar; most of us read them when we are young, then forget them for a long while, and in after years read them again with a new kind of appreciation.

Follow the child's studies. You will find that you are interested in reviewing your knowledge of geography, arithmetic and spelling. The point is to keep step with the child all the time and make yourself a most interesting companion.

Right Angles

By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

The Deserter

"SHOOT him at sunrise", is the sentence pronounced upon many a deserter when nation grapples with nation and a coward deserts his guns.

In the Grand Palace in Venice there is a long line of portraits of the Doges, those wise merchant magistrates of Italy. But one panel is blank and is hidden by a black curtain. There once smiled the face of Mariano Falieri, who was blotted out because he was found guilty of treason. Venice would remember him no more. He was a deserter.

Even the great heart of Lincoln would be taxed to find mercy for a deserter condemned to face the firing squad, although his pardons for poor boys found sleeping on their posts are famous.

Before what Judge Jeffreys shall we hale the deserter of life and weans? One feels like whistling back the Spanish Inquisition as the only historic court cruel enough to deal with such a monster. This is once when we object to Shakespeare's mercy tempering justice.

When I was a lad of only a handful of summers I used to play with a little neighbor girl in the sylvan hills of Pennsylvania. When womanhood came she gave her hand and heart to an unworthy from the big, mysterious city. Five years later I found her again, with a curly crowned son of three, fighting a losing battle for a livelihood. Her husband had absconded in the night, with no farewell. Whither he had fled she did not know, and when I asked her why she didn't have him hunted down and compelled to support his child she answered: "I'm afraid he'd kill me."

Doesn't that exhaust your vocabulary of unprintable expletives and make you think in syllables of T. N. T.? When I get to be President I'm going to corral such fellows on some penal Devil's Island and set some square-jawed Legree over them to drive them at hard labor to support in Sans Souci affluence their abandoned posterity.

With such scoundrels and scalawags to deal with, compulsory home-dwelling as an alternative of desertion is a poor panacea. What woman would barter her wedding diamond for the joy of sharing her home with such a brute? I imagine she'd rather go to the Zoo and pick a good-looking chimpanzee or a Romeo baboon.

Of course, she shouldn't have married such a wild animal, but that's another story. This is no spilled milk, hypothetical proposition. The man has gone, bag, baggage and brimstone. What's to be done? There's only one cure listed in my ethical materia medica—call Judge Jeffreys and tell him we want no clemency.
